Mounties for Hines Park

Police Officer Dawn LaLonde is attractive, but according to Wayne County Undersheriff Loren Pittman she is also an expert in riding horses. Dawn, now entrusted with inmate custodial duties at the out-county unit of the Sheriff's Department in Westland, and some 50 other department members have volunteered to be a part of the horse patrol which Sheriff William Lucas (shown with Dawn) has in mind for controlling crime in Hines Park. New horse unit reportedly is about ready to go, through donations of horses, equipment, stalls and other needed equipment, all without county funding.

Election to decide fate of millage, candidates

Romulus school district voters Monday, June 11, will cast ballots deciding the fate of a crucial 9-mill renewal for five years and choose between two candidates running for a four-year term on the school board.

Renewal of the 9-mill levy is considered paramount by Supt. James Garfield because, at 25 percent of the total operating school tax rate of 36.15 mills, its loss would undoubtedly mean a drastic reduction in school personnel.

Of the total approximate $13.3 million school budget for this year, about $8.5 million is generated by the school tax rate from the school district's state equalized valuation of $236,034,660. State aid of about $3.3 million, $400,000 in federal funds, and money from miscellaneous sources make up the balance.

Should the 9-mill levy go down to defeat, more than $2.1 million would be lost as operating revenue to the school district.

Although the loss in funds would cost the jobs of many school personnel, mostly teachers, both Garfield and Bates Landis, business manager, said it would be impossible at this time to predict exactly what would have to be done to make up the huge deficit.

"The cuts that would have to be made would be in services, not such items as heat, water or lights," Garfield explained.

The 9-mill levy renewal would cover the years 1980-1984 inclusive, but tax collections would not begin on the proposal until 1980, the superintendent said.

Landis said it should be made clear that if the 9-mill levy passes, the total operating school tax rate would remain at the current 36.15-mill level.

"Compared to neighboring school districts, the 36.15 mills for the Romulus Community Schools is in the low to middle range," the business manager emphasized.

Voters Monday will choose between incumbent Jo Ann Marvicsin and Barbara Avery for the four-year term open on the school board.

Mrs. Marvicsin was elected last year to fill a one-year term. Mrs. Avery is no relation to Wayne Avery, the current president of the school board.

Tax levies, board race in Huron

Voters in the Huron school district will go to the polls next Monday, June 11, to cast ballots on two millage proposals and to choose from six candidates for two seats on the school board.

A 10-mill renewal for school operation and a 3.5-mill additional levy, both over a one-year period, will be decided by voters.

Seeking the one one-year term on the school board are incumbent Robert W. Lemieux and Sheila P. Romas. Vying for the two four-year seats are: incumbent William H. Manny, James W. Pershing, Andrew W. Fleming, and Joseph S. Majtyka. Pershing previously served on the board.

Ignores legal advice

Council votes to fight suit

Although the cards seemed stacked against it, the Romulus City Council failed to heed the advice of its attorney and voted 4-3 not to pay $2,500 in lawyer fees for a city florist who sued for violation of the Open Meetings Act by that body last Oct. 24.

City Atty. Charles M. Lowther, in a recent memorandum to the mayor and council, advised both parties they should pay $2,500 in attorney fees for Ed Rush, who had indicated he would drop the lawsuit at this point.

Rush was successful last October in obtaining an injunction from the Wayne County Circuit Court forbidding further closed council sessions and ordering that body to post notice of open meetings in advance as stipulated under the state's Open Meetings Act.

His suit further charged that council discussed subjects other than that listed on the notice of the meeting Oct. 24, which the suit contended was another violation of the Open Meetings Act.

Lowther told the mayor and council that the city's motion to find out if Rush wanted to go on with the suit and for a summary judgment by Judge Charles Farmer had not gone well.

He stated that Rush's attorney, Stephen Danko of Southgate, said Rush would respond to questions within the 10-day required period from date of the motion. Further, he said, in his summary judgment, Judge Farmer indicated that city officials could be found guilty separately "if they encourage and-or participated in the conduct of a closing meeting".

Lowther further stated that in discussion with Rush's attorney he was told that Rush would dismiss the lawsuit if council would pay his lawyer fees of $2,500.

"Due to the fact that a trail of this matter will result in the payment by the city of its own attorney fees, and in all probability, an order compelling the payment of plaintiff's attorney fees, I would suggest that this offer should be pursued," Lowther recommended in his memorandum.

His request to contact Danko to have the lawsuit dismissed and authority to pay him $2,500 was turned down by a slim margin of one vote.

Voting to continue the court case, apparently with the handwriting on the wall, were council members Ray Cantrell, Jerry Canejo, James Raspberry and Mary Ann Banks. Voting to have the lawsuit dismissed were council members Junior Block, Mary Carter and Beverly McAnally.

Contacted by the Enterprise, Rush commented, "Inasmuch as I'm not seeking damages, it is ridiculuous for the council to go to court."

Church hit by fire to meet on future

A special church conference has been scheduled by the Community United Methodist Church of Romulus for Monday, June 11, 1979, at 7:30 p.m. at the church parsonage, 36890 Ferndale, in Romulus. The membership must determine whether to restore the present structure, severely damaged by fire on Oct. 23, 1978, or undertake acquisition or construction of a new building. The present church was erected in 1903 and a rear addition constructed in the early 1950's.

Prior to the conference, the congregation is invited to submit constructive suggestions as to their preference to the above address, so that all aspects of this important decision may be fully and fairly presented at the meeting. All members are urged to reserve this date and attend the conference.

Sheriff to use horse patrol to control Hines Park area

Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas has announced the formation of a horse patrol unit as a permanent component of the Wayne County Sheriff Department.

In making the announcement, Sheriff Lucas pointed to the problems the sheriff's department is having in controlling the unruly crowds in Hines Park and indicates that the addition of a sheriff's mounted patrol unit will go a long way in helping to correct some of the problems caused by the rowdies who use the parkway and deprive the citizens of "one of the finest recreational facilities in the country."

However, the severe economic condition of the county requires that the sheriff's mounted division be formulated by active participation of the citizens of Wayne County. To these ends the sheriff is requesting that people who wish to donate horses in order to start this program do so.

The horses requested should be between the age of four and nine years old, either geldings or mares, in sound physical condition and should also be well-trained. Sheriff Lucas went on to add that the Wayne County Deputy Sheriff Association has donated $2,000 to go towards the purchase of saddles and other related equipment. Further, Wayne County General Hospital will turn over space in some of their abandoned dairy barns in order that horse stalls can be built in order to secure the horses donated.

The program is being coordinated by Lt. Warren Evans and Detective Jim Akhtar of the Wayne County Sheriff Department. Training for both police officers and horses will be provided through a cooperative agreement with the Detroit Police Department, Mounted Division, under the supervision of Inspector Pat Muscat. Anyone wishing to donate a sound horse as described above should contact either Lt. Evans or Detective Akhtar by calling the Wayne County Sheriff Department at 721-2222. Donations are tax deductible.

New diamond paves way for Little League complex

The newly-formed Romulus North Little League complex, destined to be the home of the 18-team baseball group, will make its debut this coming Saturday with a grand opening ceremony at noon and a hardball game at 1 p.m. behind Beverly Park.

Some 500 to 1,000 persons either directly or indirectly involved with the children and teenager's baseball organization are expected to attend. Dedication ceremony will include remarks by Mayor William M. Oakley, Council President Mary Ann Banks, Clerk Leonard J. Folmar and Romulus Recreation Department officials.

The 1 p.m. hardball game will be played on the first of five baseball diamonds to be built in the $250,000 complex, which will be financed by contributions from the general public and local businesses, Bingo games, bowling leagues and the Grand Slam Building Club.

According to Jack Moores, league president, the 18 teams will be composed of youngsters from eight to 18 years of age. He had high praise for the enthusiasm being shown by individuals and business firms who have contributed to the baseball complex.

A second baseball diamond is now under construction and a third will be finished this fall, he said. Two more diamonds will be built in the future, he added.

Included in the growing list of contributors are: Doug Baum of Baum Funeral Home, $1,000 for scoreboard; Coca-Cola, $1,000 for scoreboard; Eugene Perecki of Romulus Recreation Bowling, $500 toward dugout; Dan Thomas, a Warren resident, $500 toward dugout; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Weslin of Romulus, $500 toward dugout; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Vernatt of Romulus, $500 toward dugout; Jim Moore of Moore Sand and Gravel, $5,000 in stone and gravel building materials; Earle Equipment Co., $1,500 for equipment; Larson Co., $500 for culverts; Gil White Sr. of Dadson's Electric Co, $5,000 in materials and labor; Gary Patterson Machine Co., $500 for equipment; Martin Electric, $1,000 for materials.

"We've had many individuals and businesses who have given donations of $100 and $50," Moores explained, "let alone some 500 persons who have worked on the complex at no charge."

Residents fight crime

Romulus crime prevention officer Jerry Billiter explains the basis of neighborhood watch to Oakbrooke Subdivision residents, the third neighborhood group to establish a crime prevention program in Romulus in recent weeks. At the meeting, the subdivision was divided into block sections and assigned a block captain charged with the responsibility of assisting his or her neighbors in practicing crime prevention techniques. The other two neighborhoods, Meadows and Wynclift subdivisions have responded enthusiastically to the program and report fewer crime instances. For information about the program, call 942-9660. Wesleyan Church honored as historical site

In special Michigan Week Heritage Day ceremonies held at the Romulus Wesleyan Church at Five Points recently, the church was designated as a local historical site by the city of Romulus and the Romulus Historical Society. It is the oldest church in Romulus and has served the community for 124 years.

In conjunction with the worship service, Mayor William M. Oakley presented the Rev. Elvis Shook, pastor, an official resolution signed by city officials, designating the Romulus Wesleyan Church as a local historical site.

Pearl Varner, president of the Romulus Historical Society, presented a plaque to Harold Bailey, representing the church board members, who gathered before the altar for the ceremony.

A Romulus man, Bob Lambert, representing MacDonald's Restaurant, made a special presentation of a number of large photographs of Romulus taken in bygone years, to Alan Wilkerson, vice-president, who accepted them in behalf of the Romulus Historical Society, to be preserved for posterity. The originals were from the Lau collection.

In commemoration of the Romulus Union Church Society, which erected the "White Church" in about 1855, the Community United Methodist Church congregation (formerly the M.E. Church) joined in the worship service on Sunday. The Rev. Floyd Ellison offered prayer and his choir sang an appropriate number for Michigan Week, "Michigan Water Wonderland," which is being considered as the official song of Michigan. There was special guitar music and singing by several members of the "White Church," the ladies attired in homemade period dresses and sunbonnets.

Descendants and-or relatives of the following former pastors of the "White Church" were in attendance: Rev. A. C. Bunnell, Rev. J. S. Rose, father of the late Mrs. Georgie (W.C.) Barton, Rev. G. L. Densmore, and the Rev. Arthur Ruder, the latter who worked on the church's centennial in 1955.

Close to 200 persons picnicked together in Kennedy Park immediately following the church service, with added picnic tables being brought in especially for the occasion.

Old-fashioned games of horseshoes for the adults, bag races for all ages, balloon contests, and shoe races filed the afternoon. Tiny ones dug for hidden pennies in a big pile of sand — "finders keepers"!

"Special highlights" of the day to be remembered included: the beautiful 1884 silver communion set displayed on the altar during the service (the set consisted of a decanter, two large silver goblets (one for men and one for ladies), and a bread platter); The spontaneous enthusiasm with which the double congregation sang such old-time favorites as "Glory, Glory Hallelujah" and "Sweet Hour of Prayer"; visiting with the granddaughter of Jenks Pullen, who sold for $30 the land on which the White Church stands; Mrs. Ruth Sherman; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lau showing their rare collection of early Romulus photos while visiting with friends at their picnic table and basking in the day's warm sunshine; Pearl M. Morris distributing colorful balloons and conducting the children's games from her wheelchair; the happy Clemence Patrias clan championing the game of horseshoes; the fascinating display of memorabilia by the Romulus Historical Society, including a map of the original landowners of Romulus Township from the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.; three-dimensional display of the early village buildings in Romulus by Theresa Kochanowski, which she had prepared for the Romulus Bicentennial Celebration of 1976.

RHS staff members attend seminar

Four Romulus High School staff members recently completed a graduate seminar on business and industry awareness. The 12-week workshop included visits to businesses in Detroit, Livonia, Taylor, Westland and Plymouth. Guest speakers met with the class and answered questions concerning their particular careers. Information gained at the seminar was turned in to Alberta Garrett (at far right in photo), media specialist in the high school career resources center. Students utilize the information to learn about job opportunities in the Metro Detroit area. In addition to Garrett, others who attended the seminar (left to right) were: Nancy Shirley, 10th grade counselor; Allie Jackson, 11th grade counselor; and Robert Long, senior class counselor.

Jobs available for students

A job placement service is now being offered at Romulus Senior High.

Romulus seniors and former graduates are stepping out into the world of work and the important transition is being made easier because of this service. Job-ready young people are being provided with employer contacts, job counseling, career information and employability skills training. Any former graduate up to the age of 21 years can contact the job placement office at the high school.

In brief

Pupils aid air search

Ten members of the Wayne-Romulus Civil Air Patrol cadet ground team and their commander proved their worth recently when they found a missing aircraft en route from Minnesota to Michigan.

Following orders from Red Cap base station at Willow Run Airport May 25, 1979, to search for the plane, Lt. Sandra L. Dubois called the Romulus junior and senior high schools to have the students under her command released from classes.

Ordered to search 10 airports in a 50-mile radius of the plane's intended destination, the ground team found the aircraft at the fourth airport in New Hudson.

Participating in the search were: Capt. Timothy Kudla, Sgt. Carol Noyak, Sgt. Tony King, A-C Denise Gilbert, AM Jackie Bryan, WO James Hering, Sgt. Dora Gilbert, Sgt. Keith Bryan and A-C Deann Dubois. Sgt. Jackie Bath remained at group headquarters for communication with the Willow Run base station.

Featured contestants will be well-known Detroit radio and television sports personalities against members of the Detroit Red Wings. Donations for the celebrity event will be $2; children under 12 will be admitted free.

'Watch' social set

The Halecreek Neighborhood Watch is holding a "Get-Acquainted Social" on Wednesday, June 13, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. in the Hale Creek School Cafetorium.

Refreshments and prizes will highlight the occasion, designed to introduce area residents to the highly-successful crime prevention program. All residents are welcome to attend.

Artrain to visit Huron

Michigan Artrain, a touring art museum housed in six specially designed railroad cars, the only one of its kind in the nation, will be stopping in Huron Township Oct. 13-19 at the Waltz Siding.

Although an educational and culturally beneficial project — free to the public — there are certain costs: power; telephone; insurance and housing for the on-board staff, which must be met by communities hosting the project. Therefore, area businesses and individuals are asked to make sponsoring contributions of $20, the Huron Township Artrain Committee announced.

As a contributing sponsor, names will be listed in a special community brochure printed in conjunction with the project. Donors can relax and receive hospitality in the caboose, an attractive, compatable addition to the train, furnished in turn of the century decor.

Most especially, visitors will have the satisfaction of contributing to an arts experience for the area schools, because funding for field trips has become almost totally non-existent. The schools will have the chance to develop programs dealing specifically with the history and development of our nation's art and culture, and experience, first hand outstanding American art and craft — historical and contemporary — as well as observing the skills of the on-board artists.

Visiting chairman of the Saginaw County Board of Commissioners Norman Howell joined with Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service representations and commissioners for a tour of the new $5 million Wayne County Extension and Education Center in Wayne during a recent County Exchange Day. The center, a joint effort of the Wayne County Intermediate School District and the Cooperative Extension Service, features an experimental greenhouse, 100-year-old windmill, a barn, auditorium, arena and farmhouse. The complex eventually will include a workshop, demonstration center, administration building, classrooms, experimental plots, laboratories and other facilities. At the center were Gerald Draheim (from left), horticultural agent, County Commissioner Thomas Presnell of Westland, Howell and Don Juchartz, director of the complex.

House OK's bill to bolster business, industrial growth

A major bill creating a corporation to help bolster business and industrial development in Michigan has received the approval of the House of Representatives.

According to State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District), the bill would create a business development corporation and a subsidiary corporation dealing only with new business and industry. The measure gives the two corporations substantial power in promoting and maintaining business development.

Mahalak said that that power includes the ability to make loans, establish credit for business, acquire real estate and build facilities.

Under the bill, the corporation would be established with one million shares of stock issued at $20 per share, Mahalak explained. Financial institutions which join the corporation would be required to loan money to the corporation on demand. However, loans from any members could not exceed more than 2 percent of the corporation's capital, surplus, guaranteed funds and loss reserves.

The subsidiary corporation—new business investment corporation—would also have one million shares of stock to issue at $10 a share. The parent corporation would be required to buy stock in the new business corporation in the amount equal to 50 percent of its additional paid-in capital.

...that power include the ability to make loans....

The legislation also would require that the new business investment corporation establish five economic regions in the state and monitor those regions on developmental opportunities.

The structure of the two corporations would be similar to a corporation in New York, which is responsible for the placement of $114 million in industrial development in the state since 1955.

In other action the House approved a resolution creating a special joint legislative committee to study the safety of nuclear power plants currently in operation in Michigan.

The committee also would be charged with the task of making suggestions on possible improvements and possible alternatives to nuclear operations.

"In light of the crisis created by the nuclear accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant in Pennsylvania, it is essential that we study more carefully the risks of nuclear power," Mahalak said. "The event occurred when the plant's cooling system broke down, both through human and mechanical error..."

The committee will have the authority to review current state emergency evacuation plans and the history of nuclear safety in Michigan. It also could recommend changes in safety plans and alternatives to nuclear power and suggest methods of phasing out the use of existing plants.

The College Scene

Residents receive college 'sheep skins'

Two Western Wayne County residents were among the largest graduating class in the 32-year history of Madonna College May 5.

There were 469 graduates, with 374 receiving bachelor degrees and 95, associate degrees.

Cleve Hobbs of Romulus received his bachelor of science degree in criminal justice, while Joseph Carney of New Boston was awarded his associate of arts degree in social science.

Also on the college scene:

Three Belleville residents were among 529 students at Michigan State University in East Lansing to attain a 4.0 grade point average during the 1979 winter term.

Collecting perfect marks were Lisa Chen of Belleville Road, Charles Dougherty of South Biggs Street and John Dougherty of South Biggs Street. Miss Chen is a sophomore, while the two young men are both seniors. All are graduates of Belleville High School.

During the winter term at Madonna College in Livonia, nine Belleville-Romulus residents were named to the Dean's List.

Honored were Romulus residents Terri Toporek, a sophomore majoring in business; Annette Bell, a senior majoring in criminal justice; Jane Delodge, a senior majoring in gerontology; and Joanne Glaab, a senior majoring in nursing; Belleville residents Susan Gundry and Nancy List, both seniors majoring in nursing; and New Boston residents Jerome Ballantyne, a senior majoring in business; Debra Musial, a senior marjoring in criminal justice, and Kendra Williams, a senior majoring in learning disabilities.

Judith Bly of Ryznar, Belleville has received her associate of applied science degree from Southwestern Michigan College in Dowagiac. The degree was conferred on May 23.

Belleville resident Vicki Lynn Smith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Smith of Bohn Road, Belleville has received her bachelor of arts degree in public speaking from Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C.

A student in the School of Fine Arts, she was a member of the Chi Kappa Delta Literary Society at the University.

Robert Gerald Eves, 25, has received his bachelor of science degree in business administration from Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant.

A 1973 graduate of Romulus Senior High School, he is the son of Paul G. Eves of Westland and Grace Daughenbaugh of Romulus.

CUFA nets funding for VISTA staffers

Communities United for Action (CUFA) Inc. has received funding for some 12 VISTA volunteer slots, with the first of that group to begin training in September.

The volunteers will work as community organizers in CUFA's eight target cities.

Research done by CUFA's program planning staff indicates that there is an apparent lack of "grassroots" leadership available to organize citizen groups around important issues. It is CUFA's feeling that, via the VISTA volunteers, community organizations already in existance can be strengthened, and made viable as tools in the hands of the poor in CUFA's target cities, a spokesman said.

In the capacity of Community Organizers, the VISTA Volunteers will help identify local leadership, develop that leadership, and assist in creating organizations that can become involved in local issues and concerns which effect them.

VISTA volunteers will be provided with minimal income — health insurance coverage for most medical and surgical costs, hospitalization, prescription drugs, emergency dental care and prenatal care. At the end of one year of service, VISTA volunteers will receive Civil Service ranking without having to take a Civil Service exam.

Applicants that are accepted will be provided with six weeks of training in the area of community organizing.

The deadline for applications is Sept. 15.

Kelsey-Hayes to hire vets

Kelsey Hayes Co. of Romulus has signed a $529,743 funding agreement with the U.S. Department of Labor to train and hire 354 veterans under the Help Through Industry Retraining and Employment (HIRE) program.

The Labor Department's HIRE program arranges for private firms to hire and train unemployed veterans and reimburses the employers for their extra training costs, with funding under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Since the program's start in 1977, approximately 24,000 job and training opportunities for veterans were made available under this program. More than 200 corporations have received funds totaling nearly $50 million to provide veterans with on-the-job training and employment.

Disabled and Vietnam-era veterans receive priority consideration for filling HIRE openings but jobs can be filled with other eligible veterans, economically disadvantaged youth, or long-term unemployed from families with incomes of $10,000 or less.

Kelsey Hayes Company will use the grant money to hire and train HIRE participants in a wide range of skills at its plants in Romulus, Philadelphia, Pa., Rockford, Ill., Detroit and Seminole, Okla.

Local Michigan Job Service offices will be recruiting for the program, certifying applicants as eligible and providing Kelsey Hayes with as many applicants as required for the available openings.

For Your Safety

(NOTE: For your safety is an ongoing crime prevention column provided by the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police, a state-wide law enforcement association dedicated to greater police professionalism.)

By JACK BROWN
President
Michigan Fraternal Order of Police

It's surprising how many simple ideas to make a home more secure can be found just by sitting down with a few members of the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police and asking them. I had that chance recently — here are some of their ideas on how to prevent home theft loss.

NEVER leave your garage door open and unattended. Be generous about keeping garages lit — just as you would provide night lights for any other room in your home. Light is the enemy of intruders who might lurk in a garage waiting for you to come home, or for those trying to jimmy the garage-to-house door on homes with attached garages.

AVOID the quaint suburban custom of putting your name prominently on mailboxes or on coachlights along with your addresss. Many of our members report that cruising crooks watch for these identifications, then use directories so they can phone and see whether anyone is at home. It is a common preliminary for many breaking and enterings of homes. Many police reports prove it.

Name identification also is very important to various conmen and door-to-door shysters. Be sure to impress on all family members that not everybody who comes to the door asking for you by name, is a legitimate acquaintance. It also applies to the custom of listing your name at access roads in summer cottage territory. It is not a good idea to use family names — use descriptive phrases or something else — so that legitimate visitors have the required guidance, but crooks do not have an easy reference directly to you.

AVOID leaving keys in "secret" places — under doormats, on window sills or ledges. Believe us, crooks and thieves know all of these places and it's the first place they look for an easy entry.

WHEN working outdoors, keep doors that are not in your direct line of vision locked. It only takes a moment for a thief to slip through an unlocked, unwatched, front door and make off with valuables while you're chatting with a neighbor in the back yard, or trimming a hedge at the side of your house.

DON't attach notes to your door announcing your departure or intended return time for expected visitors. It only gives unexpected "visitors" a deadline for getting their burglary done. While any note is a giveaway that nobody is home, it would be better to direct them to a neighbor's home for your message (and the neighbor could be watching your home, too).

INSTALL a peephole viewer on your front doors. They work. It lets you see a caller without being seen. And, be wary of strangers. Don't be shy about asking for credentials — and speak through a chain or mail slot.

If it's the old "I have a flat tire and no spare, may I use your phone?" routine, leave the stranger outdoors while YOU place the call for him. There also are reports on record than many thieves use women accomplices to gain entry in this fashion.

KEEP house and car keys on separate rings. It cuts the odds in half against an unexpected and unwanted intruder, should your car keys get lost, copied, or stolen, the thief wouldn't have automatic access to your home.

One of our FOP members suggests the following checklist to help you protect your home. Any police officer can tell you that it is a common sense approach to home protection:

(1) View your home from the street. Are there obvious hiding places for a burglar or other intruder? Trim or remove hedges, greenery or trellises that obsure doors or windows.

(2) Is the door that leads from the garage into your home, breezeway or mud room as securely lockable as the main entrance door? How about the garage door, itself? If not, install adequate locks.

(3) If yours' is a 2-story home, keep ladders — wherever they are stored — secure with a chain and padlock. It's tough for a burglar to carry his own. Many of them count on you to provide them.

(4) Remove, repair or eliminate trellises, wide ledges, carports, lean-to's or adjoining roofs that provide easy access to second-story windows.

(5) Ensure adequate deadbolt locks on all exterior access doors are installed.

(6) Patio doors, or doorwalls, should be equipped with special stoppers that can prevent entry, even if locks are jimmied.

(7) Put tamper-proof locks or fasteners on all accessible windows — or install a reputable commercial alarm system on these windows.

(8) Use additional outdoor lighting for any area you feel is less secure around your home's exterior.

(9) Keep track of who possesses keys to your various doors — friends, neighbors, or household help. If one is unaccountably lost, or stolen, prepare for the worst by changing locks.

(10) Use timers to control interior and exterior lights — even when you are home. They provide excellent protection.

Be a label reader, especially when you buy cream in aerosal containers. There are many imitations on the market, so be sure you're getting the real thing . . . whipping cream packed under pressure.

MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

One thing that almost all music has in common is that it has its origins in the oral tradition of telling stories. First, they would be simply told, but in order for them to be more easily remembered and retold, they often developed a rhythm of their own. In order to enhance that rhythm, often a simple beat was introduced. The music served both to keep a rhythm for the reciter and to add dramatic effect, often as the gods speaking, or to symbolize various powers in the world. Music was associated with the mysteries of the world and man's attempts to explain them.
Our staff at DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484 will take all the mystery out of buying a piano or organ. We will be happy to take the time necessary to show you the various models we have available and to explain the features that are unique to each one. Whatever your musical ability, whatever your musical taste we will help you put enjoyment into your life. Master Charge and Visa honored. Watch for our occasional specials.
MUSIC TIP:
Keep extra reeds available for your wind instruments.

ARE YOU AWARE

How Plain and Simple the Gospel is?

Here we find Paul, the apostle of Christ, writing to the Corinthians. (From the NIV.)

I Cor. 2:1—When I came to you, brothers, I did not come with eloquence or superior wisdom as I proclaimed to you the testimony about God. 2—For I resolved to know nothing while I was with you except Jesus Christ and him crucified.
I Cor. 2:4—My message and my preaching were not with wise and persuasive words, but with a demonstration of the spirit's power. 5—So that your faith might not rest on men's wisdom, but on God's power.

(Have things changed so, has God changed that we no longer need rely on the demonstration of the Spirit's power?)

I Cor. 2:6—We do, however, speak a message of wisdom among the mature, but not the wisdom of this age or of the rulers of this age, who are coming to nothing. 7•—No, we speak of God's secret wisdom.

Dear friends, if we rely on oratory alone for spiritual maturity, we shall always be babes.

I Cor. 2:13—This we speak, not in words taught us by human wisdom but in words taught by the spirit, expressing spiritual truths in spiritual words. 14—The man without the spirit does not accept the things that come from the spirit of God, for they are foolishness to him, and he cannot understand them, because they are spiritually discerned.

Dear friends, God's word is a vital part of your daily life, and through sincere prayer, God will give you the spirit of understanding."

7-year leak: Couple seethes over seepage

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

Russell and Marcella Wellday don't know where to turn for help. The basement of their 7½-year-old house on Manila Street in Westland leaks, and they say they've been trying for seven years to get it fixed.

The builder of the house, Sam Goodman, says he would have fixed the leak if the couple had complained about it during the 1-year warranty period, but he says they didn't. Now, seven years later, he says he's thrown away the file.

Representatives of the local office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which guaranteed the mortgage and subsidizes monthly payments of the "235" house, says they don't have a record of any complaints on the house until three years after the Welldays moved in.

The city of Westland building department head says he can't do anything about it now, because the Welldays didn't complain to him until just recently.

And in the meantime, the basement keeps leaking, getting worse every year. The problem is not flooding, but leaking, water just seeping in cracks where the floor and walls meet. Sometimes it leaks after it has rained, other times rain has nothing to do with it, the Welldays say.

After years of trying to get HUD, the builder, now the city, to fix it, and trying to fix it themselves, the Welldays have consulted an attorney to see if they have a case to take anybody to court for repairs.

The story begins when they moved into the home. It was September 1971, and HUD had helped them arrange a mortgage and guaranteed assistance in paying it off. After the winter, the spring thaw set in and the basement leaked. The Welldays insist that this complaint was listed, with others, and sent to HUD before the 1-year warranty ran out.

They mournfully admit that they did not make a photostat copy of that complaint.

The Welldays can produce a letter, dated March 27, 1974, from HUD to Goodman, telling him to correct the basement leak, some kitchen and bathroom tile that was coming up, and some brick crumbling in the front porch.

A second letter from HUD to Goodman, dated June 15, 1977, tells him again to correct the basement leak.

Both letters went out after HUD inspectors looked at the house at the Welldays request and found the complaints "justifiable," as the form letter put it.

However, HUD spokesman Ken Barnard said that by 1974, HUD had "no legal standing" in demanding repairs, since the one-year warranty had expired. He said HUD's files show no complaints before then.

He said Goodman told HUD he wouldn't do any more repairing because the one year was up, and "there were no grounds on which we could take sanctions against him," Barnard said.

"There was nothing we can do aside from say please" after one year, he added. If the complaint had been within the first year, he said, then HUD could have applied pressure to force the builder to make some corrections.

He added that HUD does not inspect homes for construction integrity before going through with the mortgage. That building inspection comes from the local city.

Westland Building Director Dave Rockelman said he has no record of Wellday complaining about the house until recently. Wellday confirms this, saying that he was going "through channels" by talking to HUD and Goodman before now.

But, Rockelman said, the engineering department obviously did approve a basement to be dug there, and the subsequent building inspections were approved by the city department. If the area couldn't take a basement "we (the engineering department) wouldn't have allowed him to put it in," Rockelman said.

He added that "Mr. Goodman isn't the type who doesn't take care of problems" with his houses. Goodman still builds houses in the city.

Goodman's responses were similar when asked about the Wellday's complaint.

Although Wellday maintains he has talked to Goodman numerous times, Goodman stated that "I don't remember speaking to them for many, many years."

He said: "If they had made a complaint about the basement in the 1-year period I would have fixed it."

He said he searched his files but found that he had apparently thrown out the Wellday file. "I generally don't keep files that long."

Through it all, the Welldays still have a basement that leaks. They tell a story about how after some back-to-back rainstorms recently, he carried water out of the basement in a five gallon bucket 27 times in a half hour's time.

They tell of the long hours of work last summer when they dug a trench on the outside of the house to the footings, replaced tile, re-tarred the wall and put plastic over it, then looked forward to a leak-free spring. The work brought no relief at all, an especially bitter pill because Wellday had spent the winter building room partitions downstairs. He was so sure he had licked the problem.

The couple have five children, 9 years old to 11 months.

They can't afford to sell the house and start over again, they say, and they can't afford to have the house fixed by a contractor.

After the couple complained to the city recently, the chief plumbing inspector was sent out to give them advice on how to repair the problem themselves.

Following his advice, they broke up the concrete in the basement, locating pipes that carry water under the basement to the drain, looking for any breaks. After digging up the holes, they had to fill them in and pour new concrete. They didn't find breaks in the pipes, but did find mucky earth, convincing them more and more that their house is built "over a swamp."

Dike sealer used to patch up cracks only seemed to create more cracks, they said.

The family lives on a dirt road, but emphasizes that the problem is not a sewer back up. A few other homes on the street have basements, but not the same flooding problems, they said.

"All these years, we thought we were going through the right channels," Wellday said. "Now, they tell us we waited too long.

"We just don't know where to go now."

In a swamp?

Marcella Wellday pushed the shovel into the earth under her basement and it sunk right in. She and her husband and five children live in a 3-bedroom home, with basement, on Manila in Westland, and have spent a lot of time over the past years battling leaks that fill the basement with water. In an effort to fix the problems themselves, they have begun digging up portions of concrete, at the suggestion of a city inspector, to try and locate any broken tile. After inspecting the drains, they fill up and re-concrete the floor. The Welldays would like to see the original house builder fix the problem, but since they moved in more than seven years ago, he says he's not responsible now.— Photo by ANP Chief Photographer Lothar E. Things that matter

...Praising parents of yesteryear

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Features Syndicate

"It is safe to suggest," says columnist Bob August, "that since World War II, more books have been produced on the rearing of children than in the previous history of the human race. With all we have read, all we have learned, are we better parents today? Look around and judge by the children we produce."

I think that we are coming to see that the old-fashioned parent was better. Down deep, I guess we always knew it — or why is it that when we are grown up we brag about how strict our parents were with us?

"Boy, if I did that when I was a kid, my mother would have whaled the tar out of me," we find ourselves saying. There is a touch of pride in our voices.

By contrast, the guy whose mother's major concern was to "understand" her boy's foibles and who was afraid that a good tongue-lashing would damage his psyche always is a little embarrassed to mention that.

I remember walking across the Public Garden in Boston 20 years ago. A mother of ethnic background, whose front-line dressing down of her little boy was being given hand-y reinforcement in the rear, attracted the attention of another little boy passing by with his father.

"Daddy, why is that lady doing that?" asked the boy.

The father — a brawny type who looked as if he had never opened a parenting manual in his life — said, "She wants her son to grow up to be a nice boy."

I have the feeling that both those little boys — young adults today — grew up in good hands.

A story in praise of the over-bearing, overprotective "Jewish mother" in Christian Century magazine says: "Whether standing over the piano, mercilessly coaxing a budding prodigy, or arguing at the kitchen table over how many green beans are enough, these mothers gave their kids something to live for, strive for, react against, struggle with and grow away from."

The article goes on to say: "Few parents would willingly admit to neglecting their children. But after interviewing 250 children in several U.S. cities, sociologist Sarane Boocock concluded that the ties between today's children and their mothers are surprisingly weak. Fewer children accompany their parents on chores and errands."

Parents deposit their 2- and 3-year-olds for hours at a variety of day-care centers, the article notes, "despite voluminous research indicating there are no 'good' child-care arrangements for children of this age other than parental care."

The "Jewish mother" — of whatever religion, race or nationality — says the author, "gave a strong, unequivocal message of caring, of self-sacrificing commitment to her child."

One professional mother I know (whose husband also works) asked her teen-age daughter whether she minded coming home to an empty house after school.

After thinking a moment, the girl replied: "I guess it would be nice if you were here."

The mother said: "But you know that if you need me, I'll come home. You have my number at the office."

"Oh, I don't need you," said the 15-year-old girl. "But it would be nice, I guess, if you were here."

I related this story recently during the question period at a lecture being given by feminist Caroline Bird, author of "The Two-Paycheck Family." I was the only man in the audience.

I said that instead of explaining to children "why mother works," maybe we ought to ask them whether they would prefer to have mother at home.

Ms. Bird replied that the child of today's non-working mother, far from feeling privileged, often asks his or her mother: "Why don't you work like other mothers?"

I don't believe that for a minute. And neither do you.

Residents write about vision of earth in turmoil

(NOTE: The following is the text of a vision Mrs. Evelyn Reid Floyd of Inkster had while sleeping recently.)

By EVELYN REID FLOYD

This vision I had came in a dream, which continued all night. I would awaken and get up, then go back to bed and the dream would continue ... Before I begin with my vision I would like to refer to several Scripture readings:

The Old Testament, Joel 2nd Chapter, 28-29 verses: "And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions; and also upon the servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my spirit."

The New Testament, Acts 2nd Chapter, 17-18 verses: "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall dream dreams; And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; and they shall prophesy..."

THE VISION

I saw buildings being shaken down, people running, trying to hide. The earth (was) splitting up and water running loosely in different areas. I could see a figure under the earth as large as the earth trying to emerge. It was shaped like a man. I saw something like a tenacle, or a huge tail, reach up high into the sky, where people were going into tall buildings to hide from this monsterous beast, covering the entire world. This tail, or tenacle, would reach up from the earth and crush the top of the building, making the whole building crumble.

In my dream it was night. I saw things reach out like small arms, grabbing people. I heard the word scorpion, but I did not see one to know what it was. There were many types of things to torture you. All were monsterous, overpowering. At the same time I was able to see the earth crumble and separate as this huge form was trying to emerge from the earth.

Then I saw people running into something like a shelter, and I heard a voice speak, telling them to "Calm your children, occupy their minds so they won't worry about what is happening." I remember as the voice spoke, I saw one man, and I remember that he was a white man. He was with his family, and he stopped and began to talk with his little boy, pretending to hear something talking to him through something like a sea shell. I noticed the child seemed to calm down,

Meanwhile I still saw people running.

The Voice spoke again and again and said: "Comfort your old people talk to them." ... Comfort them. I saw people being hurried along in wheelchairs ... I woke up for awhile, then was lulled back into a peaceful and serene sleep.

Then I was taken back. It seemed I was high in the air, looking down at this horrible sight. I could see the entire world. The earth was in turmoil. Then I heard a helicopter, it was given to me that the helicopter was trying to catch the attention of something to lure it off into a canyon, or high cliff, with water below. This cliff was there because of the earth separating, and there was much water beneath. Then I saw this huge beast, as wide as the world, running rampant after the sound of the helicopter. As it ran the earth was destroyed beneath its feet. It did run into this huge canyon down into the water, which was supposed to destroy it. It was like a wild elephant, which was supposed to destroy it. It was like a wild elephant, running fiercely.

I could hear people yelling with gladness and joy ... Then I heard this voice speak again, saying: "It is no good. The things under the earth and under the water get their source of energy from the sun by day to renew their strength for the night ... Then I began to see daylight fade into evening and evening into night, night with the creatures moving beneath the earth and tenacles and tails reaching out again.

After I awoke a voice spoke to my heart and said: "Remember, I told you why we sit here and die?" Immediately, I went into prayer and was lead to record my dream.

In my prayer I asked the Lord to tell me ... what to do. As I prayed, the Lord answered me. He said: "Tell my children to open their eyes and see that I am God." As I prayed I began to speak in tongues of another language ... then I began to sing a song in tongues which the Holy Ghost did not interpret.

After my prayer with God I asked Him to confirm my vision through His holy word, the Bible. He lead my hands unknowingly, while I was unaware, to Revelation 13th Chapter, 1st verse. It reads: "Let the word of my mouth and the meditations from my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O' Lord, my strength and my redeemer! Amen."

I believe God let me see this vision to warn his people that he is God. And to those who are not saved to seek Him while He can be found (Psalms 27:8), to turn from sin. God loves you; He will forgive you all your sins, no matter what they are. It is the sin he hates, not you. Your soul is His, just for the asking of forgiveness and believing that Jesus is the son of God (John 10:22-29).

And those of us who are sinners saved by His grace, don't let God come and find us unprepared. He has forgiven us and filled us with his holy spirit. Let us not be as the five foolish virgins, who went without oil for their lamps as they waited for the bridegroom to come, and were lost (Matt. 25:1-13). Jesus said: "Except a man be born again he cannot see the Kingdom of God" (John 3:1).

Remember, God loves you and wants to spare you of his wrath, which shall and will come quickly. Don't die in your sin, be born again and live with Jesus for ever and ever.

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP
PUBLIC HEARING MINUTES

May 22, 1979
46425 Tyler Rd. Belleville, Michigan

Supervisor Cullin called the meeting ot order at 7:05 p.m. Roll Call: Present: Supervisor Cullin, Deputy Clerk Dudick, Treasurer York, Trustees: Maton, Domen and Welty. Absent: Clerk Craven and Trustee Hall. Also present: Engineers Levine and Wilhelmi. 7 interested Citizens also attended.

Supervisor Cullin explained the reason for this Public Hearing is to receive public comments regarding the State Highway Departments proposed location of the sidewalk on Quirk Road leading to the I-94 Walkover Bridge on the east side of Quirk Rd.

Engineer Levine gave a brief report on the project to date. The original cost for a concrete sidewalk was estimated at $42,000 about 1½ years ago. The Townships share of cost was estimated at $12,000. Due to inflation and a scarcity of concrete the new estimate is $92,000. Mr. Levine suggested to the State Highway Department in his meeting with them three weeks ago, that an alternate of asphalt be considered to lower the newly estimated cost.

At the meeting three weeks ago Mr. Levine determined that it was possible to move the location of the sidewalk as requested by Mr. Robert Jacobs at the regular board meeting of April 24, 1979 from the east side to the west side of Quirk Rd. if a majority of the other residents of the area so desire.

Lee Jacobs, 11105 Quirk Rd. presented a letter from his son Robert Jacobs stating his main concern was the safety of the children having to cross Quirk road from the west side (where most of them live) to the east side (proposed location of sidewalk).

Trustee Hall arrived at 7:13.

Mrs. Elmore of 10684 Quirk Rd. and Mrs. Laura Hemphill of 11116 Quirk Rd. spoke in favor of the sidewalk being on the east side.

Supervisor Cullin stated that any citizen wishing the location of the sidewalk changed from the proposed east side of Quirk Rd. to the west side could circulate a petition to the residents of Quirk Road between McBride and I-94 Service Drive. If 51 percent are in favor of the move, the Township will notify the State Highway Department of the petition. The petition must be received within 10 days of this meeting. (by June 1, 1979)

No other citizens requested to speak.

Meeting was adjourned at 7:30 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Good water safety can keep beach visit funfilled

Although the first day of summer is still three weeks away, many folks consider the Memorial Day weekend the start of the summer season.

And with the arrival of summer-like temperatures, residents are heading for beaches, pools and lakes at the Huron-Clinton metroparks in southeastern Michigan.

Disregard or ignorance of good water safety practices ranks high in the causes of drownings. Regardless of swimming ability, everyone must follow personal water safety to be safe in the aquatic environment.

Park rangers, water safety supervisors and other Huron-Clinton metropark personnel join with the Water Safety Department o the American Red Cross in offering these water safety tips:

— Learn to swim well enough to survive in an emergency.

— Do not swim alone and swim only with a "buddy" who has the ability to help when necessary.

— Swim only in supervised areas such as at beaches or pools and only when lifeguards are on duty. Stay within the markers to avoid conflicts with boats.

— Do not dive or jump into unknown waters.

— Follow the rules established for the particular pool beach or waterfront where you are swimming.

— Do not swim long distances out from shore. Swim parallel to the shore so that if you become tired you still can touch bottom.

— Know your limitations and do not overestimate your ability.

— Do not try to swim long distances, either on the surface or underwater. Do not try to swim under objects such as diving rafts and boats.

— If you are overheated, stay out of the water and cool off before returning to the water. Although the water temperature may not be very low, if you are overheated, it can be a shock to your system.

— Stay out of the water immediately after eating. Wait long enough for digestion to take place.

— Stay out of the water during electrical storms.

— Do not substitute inflated tubes, air mattresses, or other artificial supports for swimming ability.

— Avoid long periods of immersion and overexposure to the sun.

— Watch children closely whenever they are near the water or in the water.

— Be especially careful early in the season. A this time, persons often are not in good condition as they are the previous summer. Also, the cold water drains energy much faster than warmer water later in the season.

— Take instructions under qualified instructors before participating in such aquatic sports as skin and skuba diving and water skiing.

— Call for "Help" only when you are in trouble and really need it.

— Water safety is everyone's responsibility, even when lifeguards are on duty.

— Do not engage in any kind of horseplay. This is dangerous and some of those involved may not be strong swimmers.

— Keep all glass containers off the beach, out of the water and out of pools.

— Bathing suits are light weight and designed for swimming — long pants and other clothes are not. Improper clothing will tend to tire a swimmer very rapidly.

— Respect the judgment and experience of trained lifeguards — follow their advice and do not interfere with the performance of their duty.

— When in pools, become familiar with shallow and deep sections as marked. Use only the area best suited to your ability.

— When at pool do not run, push or play on the deck.

— Do not throw sand or other objects on the beach, at the pool or in the water.

Swimming is permitted at the Huron-Clinton metropark beach and pool facilities only when lifeguards are on duty and when the facility is open for swimming. All alcholic beverages are prohibited from the entire beach or pool area.

Metropark swimming areas do not include picnic facilities.

Huron-Clinton Metropark swimming facilities include Metro Beach Metropark near Mt. Clemens — Lake St. Clair and olympic-sized pool; Stony Creek Metropark near Rochester and Utica — Eastwood and Baypoint beaches on Stony Creek Lake; Kensington Metropark near Milford — Maple and Martindale beaches on Kent Lake; Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville — swimming pool; and Willow Metropark near New Boston — olympic-sized swimming pool.

Each site has lifeguards, bathhouse, coin-operated lockers and first-aid station. Lake swimming is free, pool swimming is $.50 per person.

Vehicle entry permits are required.

14 Congressman urge President to continue steel import quotas

Fourteen Michigan congressmen, led by William D. Ford (D-15th District) have written to President Carter, urging him to extend specialty steel import quotas from three more years.

The quotas, established under the Trade Act of 1974, are scheduled to expire in mid-June unless the President acts to extend them. The decision fell to President Carter after the International Trade Commission, in a 2-2 tie vote, was unable to agree on a recommendation.

Congressman Ford pointed out that the decision will have tremendous consequences for the specialty steel industry, which employs an estimated 65,000 American workers, including many in Michigan.

In their letter to President Carter, the Michigan congressmen said: "The date for your decision on the Specialty Steel Import Quotas is near at hand. We feel this decision will have tremendous consequences for those working in this industry within the state of Michigan:

"... during the past three years under the quotas, this industry has been able to hold down costs and thus contribute significantly to the fight against inflation. In fact, the International Trade Commission report stated that "price increases have been lower since the quotas went into effect than they were during the 1970-1976 period." The industry has almost been able to regain its health and once more become a major industrial employer in our state.

Joining Congressman Ford in signing the letter were Republicans William Broomfield, Robert Davis, Carl Pursell and Guy Vander Jagt and Democrats Don Albosta, James Blanchard, William Brodhead, Charles Diggs, John Dingell, Dale Kildee, Lucien Nedzi, Bob Traxler and Howard Wolpe.

"We are convinced," Congressman Ford said, "that the specialty steel industry would be severely injured, if the United States acts too hastily in terminating the import quotas. At least half a dozen other nations have surplus production and could flood the American market with specialty steel items."

Congressman Ford quoted Lloyd McBride, president of the United Steel-workers' union: "American workers should be making American specialty steel for American industry in American mills."

"That is also our position, and that is why we have urged the President to act," Congressman Ford said.

Specialty steels include stainless steel and an entire range of alloys designed for use in tool and die work, and in situations requiring special hardness or resistance to heat, corrosion and abrasion.

Chamber survey reveals

Voters want more efficient government

Michigan voters want less taxes, more action by the legislature and increased efficiency by the state government, according to the results of a Michigan State Chamber of Commerce survey.

The survey, conducted for the State Chamber by Market Opinion Research as part of its quarterly multi-client Trend survey of a representative sample of 800 Michigan adults, revealed that Michigan voters:

— Believe taxes are to high and that the tax structure is unfair, particularly when it comes to gas and property taxes.

— Are in the dark about tax limitation and admittedly confused about how the legislature is implementing the Headlee Amendment (approved as Proposal E by voters last November).

— Want a streamlined state government with more efficiency in state spending and services.

"The survey was an attempt to find out how Michigan voters felt about important current issues," explained James Barrett, president of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Emerging from the results of the survey — according to the State Chamber — is a picture of a Michigan voter who believes state government can be operated more efficiently; has more confidence in Governor Milliken than in the State Legislature; and will hold local elected officials accountable for their inaction on the issues, such as implementation of tax limitation.

"What we found is that voters in April were confused about why there's no action by the legislature on the tax limitation proposal they understood and voted for when they went to the polls last November," Barrett noted.

Although they are in the dark about the status of tax limitation, participants in the survey indicated that they would support the recall of their local elected officials, if they fail to properly implement the amendment.

Respondents also indicated they had more confidence that Governor Milliken will see that the amendment is properly implemented, than they do in either their own legislators or the State Legislature as a whole.

While people felt income, property and gasoline taxes were all too high, more than 7 out of 10 said sales taxes were "about right". Respondents said the least fair taxes are property taxes, while the most fair are sales taxes.

Survey results revealed that while people generally believe taxes are too high, they also want a decrease in government operating expenses and welfare programs. At the same time, participants in the survey said state spending should stay the same or increase for such programs as aid to local schools, road and highway maintenance, mental health, parks and recreation, aid to urban areas, mass transit and law enforcement.

"This points out the fact that people believe state government can be streamlined to operate more efficiently," Barrett concluded.

Staking out a claim

Senior citizen "farmers" are getting ready for the big growing season ahead at their garden plots located on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise. Instead of waiting for volunteer plowing, the seniors formed a committee, collected $5 per plot and paid for their own plowing. Money left over was used to extend water lines, permitting most seniors to irrigate their plots. Some 225 50- by 50-foot plots are being cultivated. Working on the plots are Mac Kehrer (from left), Bert Bailey, Henry Wyatt, John Warren, Andrew Mills, Rex Larson, Thomas Elmore, County Commissioner Kay Beard of Inkster, Dan Parker, William Fahey and Robert Beggs.

There's no doubt about real butter as a sauce or seasoning for foods. It's the best. But, for a change, try seasoned butter by blending soft or melted butter with different herbs and spices. For instance, lemon juice and melted butter does wonders for fish or green vegetables. Blue cheese butter is extra special on baked potatoes, club sandwiches and chicken.

DO WIDOWERS NEED HELP?

A respected minister we know quotes scripture appropriately to make his point. Borrowing a page from his text, the following passage of Genesis comes to mind:

"It is not good that the man should be alone..."

So, too, after a man loses his life's mate, his dearly-loved companion, he should not be left alone. No, we do not mean that he should hastily re-marry. We mean that his friends should not forsake him because his status has changed; because he is now a widower.

In our couple-oriented society, the widower is disadvantaged by his singularity. Make him welcome as before. Share your hospitality with him as you did before. Go out of your way a little to seek his company, his conversation. Help make his grieving easier by sharing with him your presence and caring, as we know you do.

This "reaching out" by you will be important to him immediately after the funeral and for many months to come.

County supports energy tax relief incentive proposal

With "extreme changes in the energy situation" the chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners is pointing out a proposal he unsuccessfully introduced in 1974 and which was unanimously adopted five years later at the last meeting of the board.

The resolution rejected by the board in 1974 called for tax-relief incentives for car pools for saving gasoline, essentially the same idea the board just approved that now is gaining public interest as well.

"The plan is basically the same then as now," said County Board Chairman Richard E. Manning. "It is mainly the date and severity of conditions that have changed enough to make a stronger impact and generate greater interest in fuel savings."

Urging the board to support U.S. Department of Transportation efforts promoting car pools in urban areas, Manning in his resolution said current American mobility patterns are an energy drain and an inefficient use of scarce resources.

He said 20 billion gallons of gasoline could be saved annually across the nation, if the average automobile occupancy rate on urban work trips were increased to 3.2 persons from the current 1.6.

Manning also said more use of car pools would reduce congestion on urban-suburban traffic arteries and alleviate parking problems in core cities "without severely constraining mobility."

On tax-relief incentives, Manning proposed that any car pool operator (CPO), a driver regularly transporting three or more persons to and from work, should be allowed in part the same deductions and depreciations as in business use of automobiles.

Also proposed for CPOs is a personal tax exemption of $1.50 per day per passenger transported in a car pool, and both the personal and business relief would apply to both state and federal income tax obligations.

Manning's resolution also would exempt CPOs from a staggered day policy governing fuel purchase.

"The time has come for reassessment. We have entered a new age and a new definition of personal convenience or personal inconvenience is in order," Manning said. "I think some change is definitely appropriate, if we expect to continue a sensible balance between comfort, convenience and necessity."

"Driving a car today with only one person aboard may soon become a convenience so expensive that it also will be a discomfort. Either we sacrifice a little today or a lot tomorrow."

Michigan celebrates as June 'blossoms'

Roses, asparagus, dancing hippos and frisbees, Michigan's Calendar of Travel Events has celebrations for them all — and a June-full of other events guaranteed to get your summer off to a sizzling start.

June is definitely the month to "stop and smell the flowers" — on Mackinac Island for the Lilac Festival June 8-10. The Lilac Festival parade will feature the unique charm of horse drawn floats.

There are those who may think that there's also something unique about celebrating an asparagus harvest, but that's what the residents of the Hart-Shelby area will be doing June 8-9. Some edible aspects of the National Asparagus Festival will be the asparagus smorgasboard and bake-off. There also will be tours of asparagus farms, helicopter and glider rides, a variety of contests and games for every age.

On the subject of food, Battle Creek might well be called the cereal bowl of the world. Come June 9, one of the town's most famous citizens — Tony the Tiger — invites you to join him, Miss America and the Serendipity Singers at the World's Longest Breakfast Table. Breakfast will be served from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and they're going for the Guiness World Record this year.

Frankenmuth is a one-of-a-kind place to visit any time of the year, and the Bavarian Festival June 10-15 puts the frosting on the cake — or "the head on the brew" — as they say. The festival commemorates the city's Bavarian heritage with traditional oompah-pah music, hearty food, parades, special tours, arts and crafts and old world hospitality. While in Frankenmuth, be sure to visit Bronners (where the Christmas spirit "jingle bells" year 'round), Rau's Country Store, the art gallery, Schnitzelbank Shop and the many other inviting shops.

Michigan is a melting pot of the cultures of the world and proud of it. Those cultures are perpetuated in numerous communities state-wide and every summer weekend in Detroit. June's Ethnic Festival schedule at Detroit's Hart Plaza include the German contingent June 8-10, Slovak-Captive Nations June 15-17, gastronomic delights combined with the mystery of the orient June 22-24 for the Far East and French festivals. Wyandotte's Yack Arena hosts a Hungarian Festival June 8-10.

American heritage also is the focus of celebrations this month. For armchair generals, the living encampment and military muster of the Lakeville Heritage Festival convenes June 23-24, with 18th century battles, crafts and games.

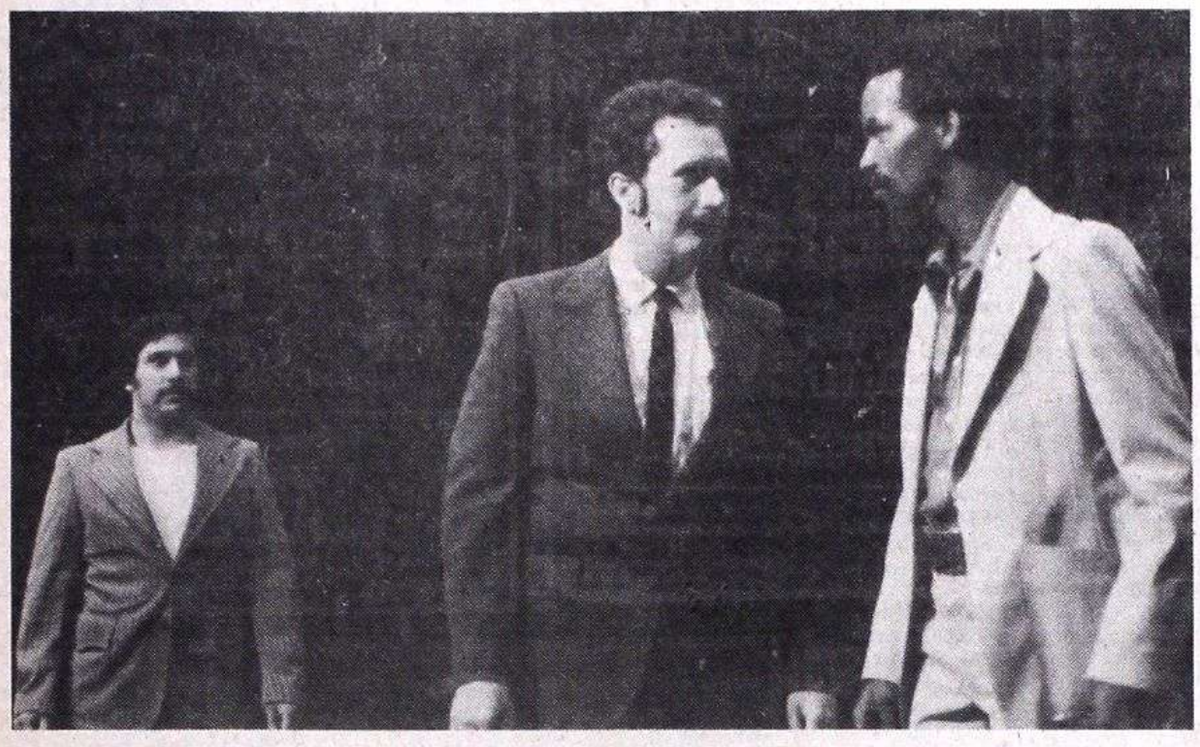
Michigan's living history book, Greenfield Village, Dearborn, hosts hundreds of sharpshooters, June 16-17 during the Muzzle Loaders Festival. The lilting melodies of early America will be the order of the day June 30-July 1, during the Ancient Fife and Drum Corps Music Muster, on the Village Green.

Bring a blanket and a picnic — and settle in for an afternoon of toe-tappin' entertainment on the banks of the Thornapple River, June 24. The annual Thornapple Bluegrass Music Festival at Charlton Park, Hastings hosts the High Canyon Ramblers, Cabbage Crik and other top Michigan folk, bluegrass and old-time music makers from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. Fiddlers and Bluegrass competition highlights the Red Cedar Jubilee, June 17-24 in Williamston. Other attractions include horse and tractor pulls and an antique car rally. The music, crafts and lost arts of the upper great lakes region are all a part of the North County Folk Festival June 30-July 1 in Ironwood.

Antique auto fans will want to note the Straits Area Antique Auto Show, June 30 in St. Ignace. More than 300 autos will be on display, including a classic Packard, 1898 Locomobile Steamer and an amphicar that travels on both land and water. If you need a spark for a Model T or a carburetor for a Packard, you might find it at the Antique Auto Show and Parts Swap Meet, June 17 at Stambaugh.

Art and Craft fairs are as abundant as the flowers in June. Highlights include the Dancing Hippopotamus Arts and Crafts Festival, Ocqueoc, June 30-July 1, which features the work of local artists.

For lots more things to do in June and the summer months ahead write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing 48909, or call, toll free, 1-800-292-2520.



'No Place'

Juan Verde of Belleville (from left), Jim McGough of Detroit and Robert Byrd of Inkster rehearse a scene from the Eastern Michigan University Players' weekend production of "No Place to Be Somebody." The Pulitzer Prize-winning play will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday through Sunday in Quirk Auditorium on the EMU campus in Ypsilanti. Tickets can be obtained at the theater box office.

EMU Players will stage prize-winning 'No Place'

"No Place to Be Somebody," the only play written by a black playwright to win the Pulitzer Prize, is the spring production of the Eastern Michigan University Players.

The play will be staged Friday through Sunday at 8 p.m. in Eastern's Quirk Auditorium.

The play, written by Charles Gordone and originally produced at the New York Shakespeare Festival Public Theater, is billed as "a menacing comedy" which takes place in New York's Harlem. The drama is an exploration into the lives of "nobodies," men and women who strive to become "somebodies."

The production won the Pulitzer Prize for the 1969-70 theatrical season.

Eastern's version of the award-winning production, which features a student cast of 17, is directed by Marvin Sims, a lecturer in the department of speech and dramatic arts at EMU.

Sims said the play focuses on the lives of a group of patrons of the local neighborhood bar in Harlem. In striving to become "somebody," they are caught up in a web of physical, mental, emotional and materialistic exploitation.

Appearing in the play are Juan Verde, the son of Mrs. Janet Verde of Belleville, who is majoring in speech and dramatic arts; and Robert Byrd, the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Byrd of Inkster, who is a senior majoring in radio, television and film.

Tickets for "No Place To Be Somebody" are $3.50 for the general public and $2.25 for EMU students. Tickets are available at the EMU Theater Box Office from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. each weekday. Reservations may be made by calling the box office at 487-1220.

Pond life surveyed

"Life in a Pond" will be presented at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Saturday at 1 p.m.

Park naturalist Glenn Dent will lead visitors to the nature study area's pond to explore the variety of plant and animal life along its shore. Mollusks, crayfish, insects, and fish will be collected and examined as well as many of the microscopic creatures, which make up the beginning of the food chain.

Vehicle entry permits — annual regular, $7, senior citizen, $2, or daily, $2 — are required.

Editorial opinions

School board endorsements

In Van Buren Township

Voters of the Van Buren school district next Monday will have the unenviable task of trying to choose two school board trustees from a field of three qualified candidates.

Two of the candidates are incumbents. Mrs. Dolores Temple, currently finishing a one-year term, is forthright in her views and a stern believer in doing what is in the best interests of the school children.

Bob Cook, also an incumbent, is ending a four-year term on the school board. He is quite active in the community, especially in working with young people in 4-H activities. He has proved to be level-headed and has the ability to work with children and young people.

Larry Boelter, the challenger to the two incumbents, is the local owner of Boelter's Welding. He is a young businessman who is described as likeable and with a good head on his shoulders. Many believe he would make an excellent school board member.

Gamblers say when a contest is close and bettors want the odds, "It's 6-5, take your choice!" That's how we feel about the school board race in Van Buren Public Schools. All three candidates are qualified and acceptable.

In Romulus

Residents of the Romulus school district next Monday will be asked to renew a 9-mill levy for operational purposes and to elect one of two candidates for a four-year seat on the school board.

We recommend without hesitation the passage of the 9-mill renewal for a five-year period. This action will ensure that Romulus Community Schools will be able to maintain the current level of education, one it worked so hard to keep with the successful millage election of last year.

The 9-mill levy represents a fourth of the school district's total operating school tax rate of 36.15 mills. Common sense would indicate that should such a substantial portion of the school district's revenue be cut out, chaos and near disaster would hit public schools in the Romulus community.

Should the renewal fail, services would have to be drastically reduced, primarily the elimination of personnel, mainly teachers. A school system without an adequate teaching staff is like an eight-cylinder automobile trying to keep up with the traffic on only six cylinders.

In the best interests of education and those of the children in the Romulus grade, junior high and senior high schools, we urge the passage of the 9-mill renewal as one of the benefits we can bestow on our young people under our democratic system of government. In many other nations in the world, the populace is not permitted to arbitrarily perform such civic duties; the government in power does what it feels is best for them! That is an important difference.

Exercise your opportunity to provide the best in education - vote "yes" for the 9-mill renewal next Monday.

In the race for the one four-year term on the school board, we strongly recommend the re-election of Jo Ann Marvicsin. She has proven her ability to take an active interest in education - before her election to the board while still a regular Romulus resident and after her elevation to trustee.

She has demonstrated her willingness to be a good listener when such a course of action is warranted and that she is conscientious in her attitude toward performing her sworn duties as a school board trustee.

We believe Mrs. Marvicsin possesses superior qualifications to those of her challenger, Mrs. Barbara Avery (no relation to Wayne Avery, school board president) and urge her re-election.

In Huron Township

Huron school district voters next Monday will face a challenge - choosing three board members out of a field of six candidates and deciding if two millage proposals should be approved.

In the race for the two four-year seats on the school board, two of the four candidates are outstanding and deserve election.

Incumbent William H. Manny and candidate James W. Pershing, a former board member for seven years, are worthy of helping to guide the Huron Public Schools over the next four years.

Manny has demonstrated that he is dependable and stable in his actions, is active in the Huron Athletic Boosters Club and is dedicated to doing what is in the best interests of the pupils of the school district. With four of his own children in the Huron Public Schools, he has an added incentive to work hard and should be given the opportunity to continue his efforts to improve the system's educational programs and goals.

Pershing, with his previous experience on the school board, has shown his publicly avowed concern for providing the best education possible for his children and those of every resident in the Huron community. Five of his offspring have and are attending Huron Public Schools and, as in Manny's case, this serves as an added catalyst to his work on the school board.

Pershing has proved on many occasions that he is his own man and one who can come up with his own conclusions after patiently listening to all sides of a given issue.

He is devoted to working actively with the community's Cub Scouts and cares enough about his place of residence to serve as treasurer of the Huron Community Service Group, and organization which publishes a community newsletter.

Both Manny and Pershing are educated. Manny is a graduate of Henry Ford Community College, while Pershing is a graduate mechanical engineer.

We feel that Manny and Pershing are superior on their qualifications to the other two candidates - Andrew W. Fleming and Joseph S. Majtyka - and warrant election to the Huron board of education.

In the contest for the one one-year term on the school board, Robert W. Lemieux is our choice over Sheila P. Romas.

Appointed last year to fill the unexpired term of Jean Reichert, he has shown that he can work with his colleagues on the board and that he is interested in seeing that the best interests of the school district's pupils are provided for.

In regard to the two millage proposals, we strongly urge the passage of the 10-mill renewal for one year. That money will go to keep operation of the Huron Public Schools at its current level. Frankly acknowledging that the school district could do with additional funds, this is the least acceptable route, one vitally needed to keep the schools operating on an even keel.

The second proposal, a 3.5-mill levy, is an additional assessment, but one that we feel is important to the safety and welfare of the school district's total enrollment of pupils. Funds from this levy would go for school repairs, including roof repairs and boiler repairs and-or replacement. A child who is cold and wet is having his health jeopardized and his attitude toward learning seriously hampered.

We urge a "yes" vote on both millage proposals.

Tisch, Tisch, Tisch!

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

Tisch, Tisch, Tisch.

Or so his critics may be heard, sighing softly while the man who fathered Michigan's Proposition 13, works quietly to hammer out a new proposal for voter consideration in 1980.

The six foot six inch Robert Tisch, resembling more the country bumbkin than the bueraucratic scurge of Michigan, operates out of his office in Courna, Michigan. And in the midst of a throng of anti-tax folk, Tisch provides the catalyst for a growing belief that people can effect change if they are willing to work hard enough at the task.

And work hard at it, Tisch does.

While detractors claim that he is nothing more than a 'special', special interest group himself, thousands who have rallied to his cause vocally defend him as the only messanger of a gospel that can save all of us from the creeping tentacles of socialism or worse.

While is it obvious that many do not really comprehend the significance of Tisch's movement — much like many have yet to fully understand the full implication of California's Proposition 13, — Tisch has been able to form a strong nucleus of people, who for whatever reason, are willing to expend the necessary effort to see that the message is delivered.

That many have not looked beyond their own interests, when supporting Tisch, is of no real surprise.

But anytime complacent voters are attracted to a cause they are willing to work hard to support, underlying reasons demand exploring.

And in spite of the anguished cries from elected officials, claiming that Tisch is leading a flock of self-interested greedy folk who care not-a-speck about the welfare of the state, the fact remains, that many of those same elected officials will privately concede that what Tisch is promoting, is in the best interest of not only Michigan, but the nation as well.

Because what Tisch is promoting is not a tax rebellion, but rather a return to representative government.

While it would be both dishonest and misleading to say that Tisch's plans could be implemented without considerable pain, the real question remains as to how much pain all of us will ultimately suffer from the continued drift toward the abyss of a total welfare state where personal rights are sacrificed for the welfare of the state.

And some indication of how far we have already progressed down that road is evident by the fact, that so many, who believe Tisch is right, and that Howard Jarvis was right, still fear alignment with his cause, lest their political careers suffer as a result.

That is indeed a sad testimonial to our current state of politics.

At a time when the state refunds to the taxpayers, through the 'circuit breaker', a considerable portion of a property owners taxes, often more than 50 percent, why would the legislature object to a constitutionally mandated cut in taxes, as proposed by Tisch?

And why would the legislature object to a limitation of two-and-a-half percent, on yearly increases in property taxes?

And why would the state object to a requirement that any new taxes be voted upon by the people?

The answer is obvious.

Should the state agree to these provisions of Tisch's proposal, they would be giving up control of state government and placing it in the hands of the citizens of this state — and such radical schemes are to be resisted by true Americans.

Should state budgets be cut and brought into line with revenues following approval of any such tax report, the legislature would then be forced to do what we are paying them to do, manage.

And managing is considerably more difficult than simply raising taxes.

Somewhere along the line, legislators have become convinced that the true measure of an elected official is not how well he manages with what is available, but rather how many new programs he is able to dream up.

While it is apparent that some new programs will always be necessary as new problems occur, a limited state income would require prioritizing state projects, and would not only reduce the costs of government but would also improve selected programs as accountability, for those projects would improve inversely with the number of available dollars to fund them.

If anyone best expressed the plight society now faces it was the historian Gibbon when he wrote of the collapse of Greece.

"More than they wanted freedom, they wanted security. They wanted a comfortable life and they lost it all — security, comfort and freedom.

"When the Athenians finally wanted not to give to society, but for society to give to them, then Athens ceased to be free."

Perhaps Tisch, and his flight to restore representative government, will cause all of us some discomfort. But when viewing the alternatives, that discomfort appears comforting.

Michigan Public Service Commission

By THOMAS H. BROWN
State Representative
37th District

The Michigan Public Service Commission tries to keep in step with the times as it carries out its big job of regulating energy, communication and transportation services. Its general responsibility is to ensure that Michigan citizens receive safe and adequate utility services at fair and reasonable rates.

At the same time, however, the commission must give utilities an opportunity to earn a reasonable rate of return, which is necessary to encourage investors to provide the large amounts of capital the companies require to maintain and improve the facilities used to serve the public.

In it's regulation of energy, communication and transportation services, the commission seeks to ensure the lowest rates which allow the best balance of adequate supply, reliability, safety, environmental protection and efficient production, delivery and use of those services.

In doing this, the commission has four major goals. They are:

— To ensure that the regulated services are provided in a safe, environmentally sound and socially acceptable manner.

— To ensure a supply of regulated services adequate to meet public need and maintain a healthy economy.

— To minimize hardship and economic disruption in time of service reduction.

— To provide a rate setting process which will occur infrequently while accurately keeping in mind the revenues needed to provide services which achieve a balance of long-range cost to consumers, adequate supply, reliability, safety, environmental protection and effective production and distribution.

It takes a staff of approximately 300 persons, most of them in technical and professional positions, to carry out this big job.

The commission is organized into four major offices — Utility Operations, Motor Transportation Affairs, Policy and Management and Organizational Development.

The Office of Utility Operations is responsible for preparing and presenting the staff case on rate increase requests and other utility matters in formal hearings before the commission and other agencies, for studies on various aspects of regulated industry operations, and for the monitoring and enforcement of commission orders, rules and policies.

The Office of Motor Transportation Affairs has the responsibility of regulating the motor carrier industry in Michigan, which includes enforcement of regulations, operating and safety requirements, size and weight restrictions for trucks, and driver qualifications.

The Office of Policy assists the commission in preparing orders, and is responsible for presenting policy statements for commission consideration and drafting rules and regulations and proposals to the Legislature.

The Office of Management and Organizational Development is responsible for internal matters, such as financial and personnel control, procurement, employee relations and management evaluation.

Changing times and needs require new approaches in regulation. There have been a number of them in the past year.

Included is an optional rate for senior citizens who use limited amounts of electricity per month (less than 500 kilowatt hours). This rate could be as much as 30 percent under the regular residential rate.

The Commission has also started an incentive availability program which encourages utilities to keep their generating plants available a greater percentage of the time and thus provide electrical energy to their customers at a lower cost. This program developed out of Detroit Edison Company's last rate case.

Another new approach is an indexing system which will automatically tie utility operations and maintenance expenses to changes in the federal Consumer Price Index. The purpose is to offer incentives for utilities to maintain expense increases below increases in the rate of inflation.

The past year brought the first women motor carrier inspectors to work for the commission, which is a major step in the commission's goal to have a staff that fairly represents the society that it works for.

Another innovation is a procedure for giving customers monthly bill information on their average electric use for the current period and the same period a year ago, and the percentage of change.

The commission has further moved to require customers to meet certain minimum insulation standards in order to be eligible for lower space heating rates, and the accompanying elimination of the master meter billing option for new multiple dwellings.

The commission has also implemented an optional time-of-day rate for domestic space heating and an auxiliary power provision for domestic customers. Domestic customers generating their own power, such as solar energy, can now rely on utility companies to provide auxiliary power.

The responsibilities of the Michigan Public Service Commission, while complex, are constantly changing to meet the public need for continued quality energy, communication and transportation services at the most reasonable possible costs.

Belleville laundry needs supervision

Editor:

I would like to offer a suggestion regarding the laundromat east of town. I believe there should be some supervision in that establishment. It is a potentially dangerous spot! I was there yesterday, Sunday, afternoon at 3:00 p.m., alone, when a young man entered and exposed himself. Fortunately, he left when I said, "beat it, kid" as I picked up one of my coat hangers.

I am afraid this is even more dangerous at night as a hangout for teenagers. There is seldom more than one or two ladies using the machines at one time. It certainly should be patrolled by owner or police.

Kids Committee plugs Temple

Editor:

The Kids Committee, ie. the Citizens Advisory Council of the Van Buren Schools wishes to thank Mrs. Delores Temple for her fine contributions to the Board of Education this school year.

We again endorse Mrs. Temple as a candidate for a four-year term of the Board of Education of Van Buren Schools.

Among her contributions to the school board this year are increased "citizen-input" into the schools as shown by the establishment of a district Compensatory Education Parent Advisory Council. A group not readily visible on the school scene last year.

Mrs. Temple has also worked on a student discipline code, and as an accountant. She has also been an advocate of our schools applying for more federal funds available for a variety of school purposes.

In short, Mrs. Temple has proven to us her service has been "just what the doctor ordered."

Nameless sheriffs garner thanks

Editor:

We don't know the names of the officers who responded to our Friday evening May 11th, on a possible B & E. However, we would like to say "Thank You."

The sheriffs were called by our neighbors. We were informed of this incident upon our return home, and about how quickly the sheriffs responded.

The sheriffs deserve more credit than they get, because they are quick and do a good job.

"Thank You Again."

Ask Carol Premo

By CAROL PREMO, C.S.W.

Carol Premo, a Certified Social Worker in private practice in Belleville, Mich., will be presenting weekly answers to problems which may have been the source of either joy or pain for some of our readers.

You are invited to ask Carol about a problem or discuss a solution by mailing your letter to: Carol Premo, Associated Newspapers, 47818 W. Huron River Drive, Belleville, Mich. 48111.

Dear Carol,

Recently I have been divorced after nineteen years of marriage. I have just begun to live. I have had successful cancer surgery and met an ideal man. I was everything he was looking for. He lost his mother two years ago of cancer. He wants to marry me but doubts the positive prognosis of my surgery and is afraid of losing me. How can I explain when it is your time, you die. He is afraid of becoming close to someone and then waking up one morning and finding that that person is no longer there. He wants to have some guarantee of ten years of happiness.

Thank you, J.

Dear J.,

You can't really explain to your friend that when "its your time, its your time." He already knows that. Mankind has always been afraid of the future and tried to predict and control it. Obviously with remarkably little success.

What you can do, however, instead of giving him unrealistic guarantees for the future, is to show him warmth and understanding during his time of anxiety. Was his mother's death his first experience or close contact with death? It is not unusual for an individual to be very frustrated and angry when confronted with serious loss and have a great need to withdraw as a means of coping. This is particularly true in the case of men who frequently have difficulty in openly expressing their feelings of pain.

Try to let him know you understand his anxiety. Show him a willingness to take care of yourself, i.e. following the doctor's advice, regular physicals, etc. You might also try one of the excellent seminars on Death and Dying which are held at many local universities. They frequently focus on helping individuals accept the inevitable for all living things.

If J., after a period of time, he shows no decrease in reluctance you may have to face the idea that he is unable to commit himself to a love relationship where there will be pain. Don't forget, there can be pain of loss whether you are married or just in a long term engagement.

Dear Carol,

I have a job that takes me one hundred miles from home. I am away almost every week and weekend. I also work fourteen to eighteen hours a day. I have no time for myself. What should I do? If I ask for another job, it may mean loss of pay, working an off shift, or reduction of promotion possibilities.

Never Get a Straight Answer

Dear Never Get a Straight Answer,

Hope this answer is straight enough for you. Take one evening off and go someplace where you can be alone. Take a pencil and paper, sit down and objectively look at your job. Write down as many of the pros of your job as you can think of. For instance, good pay, nice boss, room for promotion, etc. Then on a separate piece of paper write down all the negatives that are specifically related to this job: long hours, boring routine, too much travel. Look at both pages, how do they balance?

Often an objective evaluation of a situation helps us in clarifying our needs, desires and the appropriate course of action. All too frequently when people are immersed in a situation they forget why they originally got into it or what their original goals were. It is important to periodically reevaluate and crucial to do so when we are unhappy.

Sometimes when people start to accumulate money and material possessions, they forget what makes them happy. They think they need the expensive boat even though they may rarely get to use it. They become locked into the position that maintains the possessions and find they have no options for change. Step back and look closely at your life. Determine your needs and how to best meet them. If having but not using the boat is a need, take that into consideration.

Honestly evaluate yourself in terms of yourself, your interpersonal relationships and your future aspirations. Then act and follow through on what's important to you.

Happy Summer, kitchen, kids

By SHERRY WAINES

Summer is coming and boy is my kitchen happy. You see I think that a kitchen is only truly happy when it is a complete disaster from all types of marvelous cooking. Imagine a kitchen sparkling like a diamond, it may look great but I don't think it's happy. Thanksgiving and Christmas might be one of a kitchen's most happiest moments but I know my kitchen loves summer most. Summer is when my eight year old Galloping Gourmet goes wild concocting all types of marvelous delicacies for family, friends and of course herself.

This summer, as last, I know my kitchen will have a permanent peanut-butter and jelly counter tops, a lemonade floor and a chocolate syrup striped refrigerator. I hate it but I know my kitchen is happy.

My Kitchen Wonder suggested that I share some of her favorite recipes with you. So here they are. NOTE: All of her cooking is done without the use of a counter top stove or oven.

FROZEN GRAPES

Place a bunch of seedless white grapes in freezer for 1 hour.

FROZEN SLICES

Cut orange slices in half and place on a cookie sheet. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Put in freezer for half an hour. Remove and enjoy.

CINNAMON APPLES

Quarter and slice an apple into thin pieces. Sprinkle lightly with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Eat.

ORANGE JULIUS

Put together in a blender:
2 cups orange juice
½ cup powdered milk
½ tsp. vanilla
Add 6-8 ice cubs. Blend. Drink.

YOGURT POPS

18 ox. carton of plain yogurt
1½ cups fresh fruit, crushed, or pie filling
3 tbsp. honey
Mix all ingredients and pour into small paper cups. Freeze.

FRUIT POPS

Fruit juice (orange, pineapple, grapefruit or lemonade)
Pour fruit juice into paper cups. Freeze.

SWEET WHEAT TOAST

slices of hot buttered toast (homemade bread is best) honey
wheat germ
Sprinkle wheat germ on toast. Drizzle honey over the wheat germ. Eat while still warm.

PEANUT BUTTER BALLS

½ cup honey
½ cup old fashioned peanut butter
¾ cup wheat germ
¾ cup milk powder
Mix all ingredients well. Roll into small balls. Roll in ground nuts if desired. Chill. For a variety add nuts or raisins. Yum! Yum!

ATTENTION KIDS: Father's Day is right around the corner. Why not make him something homemade that he will be sure to love? You know what they say, "a way to a man's heart is through his stomach."

Plan ahead, ask him what his most very favorite dessert in the whole world is to eat. Then look up the recipe in your Mom's cookbook and then ask her to purchase any needed ingredients the next time she goes to the super market.

If you need any assistance in cooking I'm sure that Mom or an older sister or brother will be glad to help. He will love it and it will make your kitchen happy too. Have fun, Sherry

Reflections

A mother's Faith

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

There has been a lot of talk about inflation, recession and the possibility of a depression.

Inevitably, wherever these topics arise the ultimate conclusion to the conversation is the topic of faith, for the last great depression probably built more monuments to faith than any other national event since the coming of the Pilgrims.

The other evening a group of us were sitting around talking about all that heavy stuff, when on the whirls of cigar smoke I was carried back to that great depression and to my own observation of faith at work.

It had been a particularly hard winter that first year after my father had moved us to the farm snuggling on the banks of Snake River.

And as the sun came out, so too came that feared epidemic of black leg among the cattle. My father and the hired men worked dilligently combating the disease, and one sunny warm day in April it seemed that they had conquered. It was a time to celebrate and my dad took his hired men into town for a bit of that brew which makes men happy.

My little sister and I were sitting at the kitchen table, tucked into the bay window. The windows were open and a soft breeze caressed us as we waited with drooling tongues for the goodies which were baking in the oven.

Our mother was sitting by the window, her head leaning against the window sill, her eyes dreamy as she took in the blossoms on the fruit trees, and the calves in the pasture next to the orchard.

The smell of the baking cookies was almost unbearable and we were teasing for her to open up the oven and let it spill its treasure.

It was then she sat bolt upright.

"Oh my God," she whispered and rising to her feet she ran around the table and shot out the door.

As we shot out behind her we saw her leaping over the fence and dropping down beside a calf which had apparently fallen to the ground.

Its tongue fell from its mouth and great heaving pants shook its body.

"Another case of "Black leg," she whispered. "Oh God, we can't afford another case of Black Leg." Placing her hands upon the stricken calf, she raised her face to heaven and begged God to heal the little animal.

She knelt there a long time. I didn't know whether to kneel or to quietly remain standing, my eyes riveted on the calf. I expected any minute to see the hand of God come out of the sky and make that calf well.

If it came it came invisibly for I never saw it, but I did see the legs of the calf quiver, and then it let out a long sigh. Trembling all over, he finally clambered up on his four legs and stood there apparently testing his strength.

And then with one mighty jerk he turned from us and ran to the other calves in the far corner of the pasture.

My mother stood watching him, wiping her hands on her apron.

"Well, let's go eat those cookies," she said at last, putting her arms around us. And as we walked toward the house she lifted her eyes to the heavens and whispered, "Thank you, dear Lord."

SYEP to give low-income teens summer jobs

More than 3,500 youth from low income families will have jobs this summer under provisions of the federal Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP).

The 8-week temporary work program has been made possible through a $2.6 million grant received by the Wayne County Office of Manpower. Beginning June 25, youths between the ages of 14 and 21 who reside in Wayne County (except Detroit, Dearborn and Livonia) and qualify under federal economic guidelines will be able to participate in work experience activities which pay $2.90 per hour.

SYEP is one of several programs for both in-school and out-of-school youth made possible by the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), funded by the U.S. Department of Labor. In Wayne County the program is administered by the Wayne County Office of Manpower with local coordination provided by the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

Detroit, Dearborn and Livonia are excluded from the Wayne County program because they sponsor their own CETA programs and receive separate funds directly from the Department of Labor.

The participant goals of the SYEP are:

— To develop acceptable job attitudes and work habits necessary for successful full-time employment;

— To acquire limited occupational skill training;

— To promote counseling and supplemental training activities which underline the relationship between education and a good job; and

— To supplement the family income of those most in need.

The jobs available under the program range from clerical aide to medical-technician aide. The jobs and worksites are organized and run by coordinators in each of the local school districts.

This year the program will include an expanded classroom training activity linked with Wayne County, Schoolcraft and Highland Park Community colleges. Up to one-fourth of the participants will receive academic credit for satisfactorily completing the classroom courses.

In addition to the classroom training available to some of the participants, most of the youth will have the opportunity for taking part in individual or group counseling sessions.

Those eligible for the program must be economically disadvantaged, 14 through 21 years of age, or involved in another CETA program which required these criteria at the time of enrollment.

Interested youth should contact the Project SCORE (Student Career Opportunities through Relevant Experience) coordinators in their local school district.

Foundation develops hemophiliac registry

The Ann Arbor-based Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan is starting a drive to locate and register all hemophiliacs, individuals with von Willebrand's disease and other hereditary disorders in Wayne County and throughout the state.

The campaign is in conjunction with a new National Hemophilia Registry, which is sponsored by the National Hemophilia Foundation.

Hemophilia, a hereditary hemorrhagic disorder known commonly as "bleeder's disease," affects an unknown number of Michigan residents.

The registry information is "of essential importance to health care planners, legislatures and the insurance industry as they consider proposals to meet the needs of the state's and the nation's hemophiliacs," a foundation spokesman said.

"One benefit of the registry is that it will make it possible to accurately project the future demand on the nation's and Michigan's blood supply for lifesaving derivatives needed in the treatment of hemophilia," the spokesman added.

Recent medical breakthroughs have provided a means for controlling the disease through infusion of the missing clotting factor concentrate from the blood of normal donors.

Hemophiliacs participating in the registry will receive an official ID card which contains vital information about their condition and appropriate treatment.

A registry form may be obtained from the Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan by contacting Allen Woodford, Administrative Coordinator, U-M North Outpatient Building, Room D1119, 1425 North Hospital Drive, Ann Arbor 48109.

Information about individuals who register is kept completely confidential and names of hemophiliacs will not be released by the foundation.

Robichaud is crowned king of the Class B track world

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The name of the game in high school sports is to win the state title.

And Leit Jones out at Robichaud High knows how to play that game well.

Robichaud's Bulldogs, receiving sparkling performances from three of their seniors — Mark Woodson, Darryl Goree and Terry Ross — held off league rival, Ecorse, to win the 1979 Class B Track & Field State Championships on Saturday.

"It was great," said Jones whose 1976 team also earned the coveted title, "I just can't tell you how it feels (to win a state title). You have to live it to understand it."

Robichaud compiled 48 points to claim the championship, 16 points more than Ecorse, a team that forced the Dearborn Heights' thinclads to hand over a share of the Suburban Athletic Conference crown earlier in the week. Flint Beecher placed third in the state with 31 points.

"With the SAC going 1-2 in Michigan," Jones pointed out, "it goes to show how tough our league really is."

Woodson, a superb all-around athlete, captured two state titles and narrowly missed earning this third. The muscular 18-year-old senior covered the quarter-mile in the winning time of 49.7. He also churned a 22.1 in his victory for the 220-yard dash. Earlier, he missed winning the 100-yard event when he was nosed out by the sprinter from Parma. Woodson's second place time was 10 seconds flat.

Goree, coming off of an ankle injury, proved he is the best 'B' high hurdler in the state as he hit the wire in 14.3.

Ross again displayed his superiority in the state by winning the half-mile title with a superlative run of 1 ;56.2.

"For awhile it really looked bleak for us," Jones said. "A month ago Goree suffered that injury which kept his out, then James Rhea who is a key man in our relays was ill and then, of all things, I had some disciplinary problems with a couple of kids.

"But it all came together Saturday up their at Houseman Field house," Jones added. "It was a beautiful day and a beautiful athletic complex." (Houseman is located in Grand Rapids.)

Earlier in the week, Robichaud won the SAC league meet, but, because the Bulldogs had dropped a dual meet to Ecorse (without the services of injured Goree), the two teams emerged as co-champs this year.

Robichaud spotted Ecorse all three relays, but the Bulldogs captured nine individual events and had the depth to pile up 93 points at the meet. The Red Raiders from downriver amassed 81 points. Highland Park was third with 25.

Two names stir some memories

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Strange what the mind will store in its warehouse in the form of memories. And how mysteriously - inexplicably - some name or object will trigger those chemical clouds hovering over deep valleys and hills to clear momentarily to remind you of something in the past.

It happens always, especially as one gets older. It happened when the names "Dave Bogataj" and "Rich Walker" popped up in a couple of stories we were working on this week.

I can remember a young Bogataj as if it were yesterday, driving in for layups, passing off, attempting to steal the ball as a member of Dearborn Lowrey's basketball team; I can see Walker stretching, going high above the rim, straining each perfect muscle to grab a rebound for Inkster High's teams.

I can also see a Bogataj with his head dug deep into a towel, with beads of sweat on his face, a face which shows the agony of defeat.

It was back in 1964, when Dearborn Lowrey met Dearborn for the Class A district basketball championship. Coach Bill Rice had an exceptional team with all-conference players such as Doug Cole and Bogataj, but Dearborn's Paul "Whitey" Winslow had a trump - all-stater Bill Backensto and a team that was favored to win by at least 15 points.

Lowrey was shooting for the "upset of the year" and fell three points shy of pulling it off.

"Sure I remember," Bogataj said on Sunday. "But I didn't think anyone remembered those days."

When you're in the audience, and the performance is good, you don't readily forget the people on the stage.

Walker ended his high school basketball career just before the "Golden Age" of Viking basketball that would put into the limelight cage greats like Eartha Faust and Andre Richardson.

Walker went on to a brilliant career at Bowling Green and Sunday dropped into the office with his lovely wife "to see how the old sports editor was doing."

The head coach at Elmhurst College, in Elmhurst, Ill., Walker is in town to help organize an Inkster Parks and Recreation sponsored cage clinic.

Rich's mother still resides in Inkster and the trip home - and who ever said that 'you can never go home' - rekindles a lot of memories.

For both of these young men - Bogataj, who was named this week to succeed Dick McNally as head coach at Cherry Hill and for Walker - basketball has been a way of life.

I told each that basketball once saved my life.

"How's that?" asked Walker.

I guess I'd have to write a novel to answer that. Maybe I will.

WYAA seeks baseball umps

The Westland Youth Athletic Association has a problem. And they're not seeking a federal, state or county grant to resolve it.

In fact, the WYAA, which suits up and fields hundreds of baseball teams - both girls and boys - wants to put a little change in the pockets of young men or women who feel they're qualified to officiate baseball games.

"We need qualified individuals or federation-sanctioned officials for our "A" Babe Ruth League," said Rick Foy, president of the WYAA. "We have approached several umpires' associations, including the one in Westland, and they have informed us that they don't have the manpower."

The umps would be handling our Babe Ruth League, ages 13 to 15, and if the WYAA doesn't get some reaction from organizations it's going to be a long summer for a lot of these kids, Foy concluded.

If you need more information, give Foy a buzz at 261-5342. He'll be happy to hear from you.

They're the track champs of SAC

Franklin is ousted by DCC

Detroit Catholic Central burst Livonia Franklin's baseball bubble Saturday as the Doughboys handed Coach Gerry Cullin's Patriots a tournament-ousting, season-ending 8-3 loss at the finals of the Class A district playoffs at Redford Union.

The Detroiters scored three-runs in the top of the sjxth to break a 3-all tie, then put the game away with two more runs in the seventh.

"It was one of those games where we hit the ball well, unfortunately right at people," Cullin said. "It was also too bad that it had to come at a time when you're so close to a title."

The loss left the Livonians with an impressive 19-7 won-lost record for the 1979 campaign.

Starter Jeff Sergison took the loss, giving up eight of 13 hits to the Detroiters. He worked the first five innings, was charged with six runs and eight hits while striking out and walking two each.

Dave Herberholz earned the victory in relief. The Patriots got four hits off of two Catholic Central pitchers.

Franklin got on the board first, taking a 1-0 lead in the second, inning as Chris Baker tripled and

Caesar's wins in opener, 8-7

A two-run last of the seventh rally lifted Caesar's to a close 8-7 victory over Burhops in a Van Buren Township baseball season opener last week.

Tied at six-all going into the seventh, Burhops grabbed a 7-6 lead in the last inning. But John Wenzel drilled a triple with Tom Wingrove, who had singled, aboard, then scored the winning run on Harold Belanger's base hit.

Wingrove was the winning pitcher, while Hank Bies was charged with the loss. Bruce Bara singled and homered for the winners and Kevin Gramlich also hammered a roundtripper. Skip Baldwin and Dick Leidheiser split four hits between them for Caesar's.

Bogataj is next head Spartan cage coach

Dave Bogataj's apprenticeship as junior varsity coach is over.

The 32-year-old former Dearborn Lowrey High School three-sports lettermen was picked this week to replace Dick McNally as the Spartans' next head cage coach.

McNally, who has had outstanding success with Cherry Hill teams for the past 10 years, recently accepted a coaching position in Niles, Michigan.

Bogataj said he felt that the transition from the McNally era to his wouldn't pose any problems.

"I really don't have any fears," Bogataj said, "because three-quarters of the present varsity squad moved up from the junior varsity ranks and we know one another.

"But there is always some uncertainties when you begin a new season with a new head coach and losing such excellent players as Floyd Simmons, Pierre Hudson, and George Johnson — it leaves a big void for someone to fill," Bogataj pointed out.

Simmons, an all-stater, led the Spartans last season to the Tri-River Conference title, (the Spartans' third consecutive championship) and also to the Class B regional finals.

Bogataj prepped at Lowrey where he won letters in basketball, baseball and football. After playing two years for Coach Art Sheridan's basketball teams at Henry Ford Community College, he moved on to Eastern Michigan University where he graduated with a degree in education. His major was industrial education.

Bogataj also owns a masters in vocational education awarded by Wayne State University.

Upon graduation from EMU, Bogataj teamed with McNally at Cherry Hill to form one of the winningest basketball coaching combinations in the area.

The two coaches — and their coaching philosophies — are quite similar, therefore, Spartan cage fans and rival coaches shouldn't expect much in a way of deviation from the "run-and-gun" tactics and strategies that Spartans have utilized in the past.

"But when you're a junior varsity coach for as long as I have been," Bogataj said, "then, you're bound to devote a lot of your time to teaching fundamentals.

"And I believe that a team that has been drilled soundly in fundamentals can be a winner."

Tolson runs 2nd at state

If the saying about finishing second is true, Doug Tolson will try harder next year.

The 17-year-old Wayne Memorial senior has his problems on Saturday at the Class A state finals staged in Flint and finished second to Jackson's Olsen in the 2-mile run.

"Naturally Doug and I are disappointed that he didn't win the state title," Wayne Coach Ernie Righetti commented later. "But it's nothing to be ashamed of — he has a goal to shoot for next year.

"And, after-all he had a super season this year," Righetti pointed out.

Tolson jumped out in front in his duel with Olsen and led for most of the first mile of the two mile race. Olsen, with a sudden spurt, took command and led the rest of the way.

The Jackson two-miler crossed the finish line in 9:14.8, while Tolson's second-place time was recorded as 9:22.0.

Romulus's Donald Grandison and Richard Lewis also returned from Flint with a couple of medals.

Grandison finished fourth in the high jump competition with a leap of 6 feet, 6 inches. Sterling Heights Stevenson's John McIntosh won the gold, clearing seven-feet. Ann Arbor Pioneers' Dave Elliott was third, though he also had cleared 7 feet, because of more misses.

Lewis placed sixth in the high hurdles, polished off the distance in 14.7.

Glenn blows 8-2 lead and district title to Adrian

There is an adage that "the ball game isn't over until the last out."

Westland John Glenn, unfortunately, learned that fact of baseball on Saturday the hard way.

Leading 8-2 going into the bottom of the seventh, smelling the district title all around them, Coach Norm Hoenes's Rockets buckled and dropped a 9-8 decision to Adrian.

Adrian rallied for an incredible six-runs in that disastrous (for Glenn) inning.

Hoenes sought an explanation for the team's sudden collapse and offered:

"You know, I felt like the kids - I figured we had to get three outs and had it wrapped up," Hoenes said. "Then our dreams of a title turned into a nightmare."

In the bottom of the ninth, Steve Kenorr blasted a home run in straight-away left field in Belleville to end the marathon. Reliever Ralph McKenzie took the loss.

Glenn starter Jeff Bronson was on the verge of picking up the big win, but the pieces fell apart in the seventh and was yanked after giving up eight runs.

The Westlanders grabbed a 3-0 lead in the top of the second as Pat Kaltenback homered with Daran Armstrong aboard, then Mark Cesarz singled and scored when Tony Dalimonte singled. When the outfielder bobbled the ball, Cesarz raced home.

After Adrian put a run on the board in the bottom of the third, the Rockets made it a 5-1 ball game as singles by Tim Ruark, Jim Remington, Armstrong and a double by Cesarz produced two more runs. They added another run in the sixth as Dalimonte singled home Cesarz who had doubled.

The game looked as if it was "in the proverbial bag" when Glenn put its last two runs on the board in the seventh as Ruark sliced a single, was sacrificed to second, and Armstrong doubled him home. Armstrong scored on a single by Cesarz.

To get to the Class A district championship game, Glenn shutout Romulus in the pre-districts 5-0 behind McKenzie's three-hit pitching. They edged Ypsilanti 5-4 in the semi-final round.

Glenn collected 10 hits off of losing pitcher Tom Schick, who gave up three hits to Ruark and two each to Suida, Armstrong and Dalimonte.

McKenzie, getting seventh inning relief help from Bronson, picked up the semi-final victory over Yp-

Belleville finishes 3rd in Suburban 8

Belleville ended the 1979 track & field season as it began the year - in the rain.

Coach Dave Medley's Tigers managed to overcome the elements to win two of the three relays and one individual event at the annual Suburban 8 Conference championships staged last Wednesday during a consistent drizzle at Belleville High.

Charles Blackmon accounted for the Tigers' lone individual gold medal as he splashed his way to a 10.5 in the 100-yard dash, then picked up his second gold as a member of the winning Belleville 440-yard relay team.

Blackmon teamed with Barry Reddick, Brian Brinkerhoff and Gilbert Royster to turn in the winning time of 44.7.

Medley's mile relay displayed championship form as Dave Gdula, Brian Brinkerhoff, Gerald Hill and Gilbert Royster posted a 3:32.1.

Belleville's 880-yard relay "lost by a step" to a determined Edsel Ford foursome which crossed the finish line one-tenth of a second before the Tigers. The winners ran a 32.5, while Reddick, Brinkerhoff, Blackmon and Royster were clocked in 32.6.

If the Tigers had placed that event in their winning column, they would have picked up two more points, giving them a second place over-all team finish instead of third.

Dearborn won the conference championship with 87 points, followed by Plymouth Salem, which had 79, while Belleville finished with 77½. Dearborn Edsel Ford was fourth (77), followed by Trenton (44), Livonia Bentley (38½) and Allen Park (14).

Ironically, Medley had counted on winning the 880, but didn't figure on capturing the golds in either the 440 or mile relays.

Belleville also placed second in the mile as Bob Oatley toured the dangerously slippery and rain-slicked track in 4:30.1. He lost the

Cinderella team: Underrated Wayne jolts Ann Arbor to capture district softball crown, 9-5

Coach Kevin Schaum is hoping that the magic doesn't end for his "Cinderella" team before the Class A state softball finals are over.

Schaum's highly under-rated Wayne Memorial team surprised a highly-favored Ann Arbor Huron on Saturday, 9-5, to capture the Class A District Softball Championship and qualify for the regional tournament to be held this weekend at Lansing Waverly High School.

"I think what had happened is that Huron didn't take us seriously," said Schaum whose team has a respectable 12-8 record, but nothing compared to Ann Arbor's hefty 25-1 won-lost mark. "We have a solid ball club and if anyone looks past us, they're in trouble."

District softball champs

Wayne Memorial's girls' softball team proved once again that there are such things as "Cinderella Teams". Coach Kevin Schaum's club, sporting a 12-8 over-all record, cooled an Ann Arbor Huron team that had won 25 of its 26 games before running up against the Zebras in the Class A District finals. Wayne won 9-5 to claim its second championship in five years. Members of the championship team are (left to right, first row) Ann Knight, Carolyn Blayer, Kim Schwartz, Debbie Gorshek, Debbie Mazurek, Beth Tracy and Denise Linton; second row are Cindy Dunn, Tammy Neal, Tina Russell, Diane Beagan, Bunny Walker, Deanna Leverenz, Kelly Reinink, Stacy Krupnak and Coach Schaum.

Ann Arbor spotted Wayne six first inning runs, then tried unsuccessfully to get them back. Losing pitcher Wendy Hill got off to a shaky start as she issued seven bases on balls and a two-run single to Kelly Reinink which eventually led to her downfall.

Winning pitcher Kim Schwartz, went the distance. She walked seven but managed to hold off the powerful Ann Arbor contingent to pick up the crucial win on a four hits.

Debbie Gorshek, who singled and tripled, and Miss Reinink who had a pair of hits, led the Zebras' six-hit assault.

Wayne's infield also got the Zebras out of a couple of serious jams as it pulled off four big double plays thanks to the combination of shortstop Reinink-to-Bunny Walker to Debbie Mazurek who accounted for three of those defensive gems.

Wayne erased another Huron threat when a grounder to Tina Russell was turned into a double play. She fired the ball to catcher Beth Tracy who managed to get the ball over to first baseman Debbie Mazurek for the second out, ending the fourth inning.

Schwartz starred in a 6-5 semi-final game against Bedford. Bedford rallied for five runs in the bottom of the fifth to take a 5-4 lead after Wayne scored four times in the first.

The Wayne pitcher doubled to center field in the seventh with Tracy aboard, and the two base runners scored when the outfielder let the ball get through.

Wayne got its four runs in the first inning when Gorshek walked, Tracy singled, and Mazurek was awarded first because of catcher interference.

Schwartz came through again, drilled a triple, scoring three runs. She raced home as Tina Russell Pulled off a perfect "suicide squeeze".

Just to make sure that the fairy godmother doesn't forget: Wayne's debut at the regionals is at 10 a.m., Saturday against host, Lansing Waverly.

Chronowski's troops surrender in 9th to Ann Arbor in pre-district

Ann Arbor Huron erupted for five runs in the top of the ninth to break a 4-all tie and eliminate Wayne Memorial from the Class A District Baseball Tournament last week.

The pre-district showdown, originally scheduled for Wayne, was switched to Westland John Glenn's diamond because of a muddy field.

Wayne overcame a 4-0 deficit by scoring single runs in the fifth and seventh and putting two runs on the board in the sixth, but the Zebras couldn't match Huron's five ninth inning tallies and fell, 9-5.

Starter Mark Zerona, who worked the first five innings for Wayne, and also was back on the mound in the eighth, took the loss. The senior righthander was yanked after putting a man on base via a walk in the ninth.

Coach Jim Chronowski then turned to three other pitchers in hope of squelching Huron in that fatal inning.

Ray Lanczki managed to pitch two scoreless innings and gave up one hit after relieving Zerona in the sixth.

Trailing 4-0 in their fifth, the Zebras scored one run in that inning when Ed Turbeville was safe on an error, went to second on a wild pitch and scored two ground balls later. Larry Reid getting the RBI.

Wayne closed the gap in the sixth to 4-3 as leadoff batter Joe Guaette walked, was forced at second by Dan Perusse who was singled to third by Skip Walker.

Robert Nutt's single drove in Perusse and Walker raced home after a throwing error.

With two-outs and two strikes on Guaette, Wayne tied it up in the bottom of the seventh. A single by Guaette and Perusse's game-tying triple set the stage for Walker who missed playing the role of hero when he became a strikeout victim. The league-leading hitter had only three previous whiffs in 70 times at bat.

Huron settled the issue by scoring five runs in the ninth. Wayne got one of those back in their final inning.

The Zebras wrapped up the year with a 9-11 over-all and, after beating Riverview, 4-3, finished with a 7-7 league record, good for fifth place.

Against the Pirates, Roger Breeding went the distance, struck out three, walked five and fired a five-hitter to chalk up the victory.

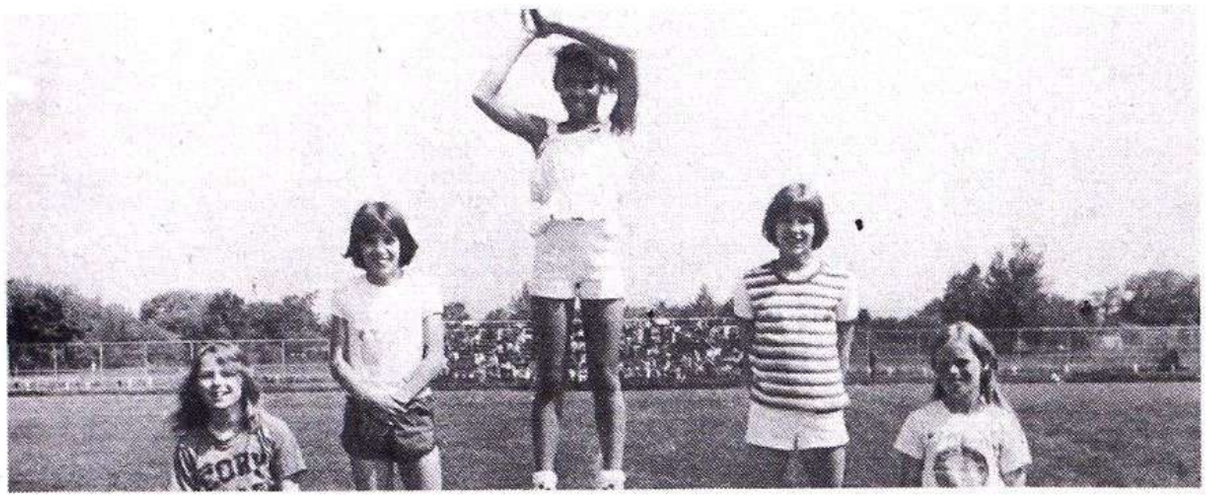
silanti's Braves who, according to Hoenes, "was out for revenge."

"We had beaten them twice before and they were fired up for this game," Hoenes explained.

Ypsilanti jumped ahead 3-1 after the first inning and it wasn't until a 3-run fifth inning that the Westlanders managed to catch up. In that inning, McKenzie led off with a double, Suida was safe on an error, then Ruark walked, bringing Remington to the plate. Remington's single produced two runs that tied the game and Armstrong singled in Ruark to put the Rockets ahead for good.

In the sixth, the Rockets got the all-important run as Ypsilanti scored its final run in the last of the seventh. What proved to be the difference in the game was a single by Kaltenbach, Cesarz sacrificed, and Kaltenbach went to third and scored on an overthrow in the sixth.



Field day

Some 1,400 Romulus fourth, fifth and sixth graders took part in that city's annual Field Day competitions held last week at Romulus High School. On the winner's dias is Beliendia Steights, 11, who won the half-mile event. Also pictured above are Mary Savage, Natalie Zabik, Marion Wedlick and Kathy Morgan. Romulus High athletic director Bill Hardy said that the competitions will continue on Thursday beginning at 9:15 a.m. The students are competing in the 880, long jump, 60-yard dash, 440-yard relay and tug-of-war.

Patriots

scored on Doug White's base hit. After Catholic Central put three runs on the board in the fourth inning, the Patriots tied it up.

In their fourth, Jim Kuzara and John Mazurek walked, Herb McManaway singled in one run and Jimmy Wilson tripled, but Herb had been erased from the paths attempting to steal home.

Franklin qualified for the finals by burying Detroit Henry Ford 11-1 in a game called after five because of the 10-run rule. (A team that establishes a 10-run advantage is awarded the victory.)

Ken Webster fired a two-hitter, struck out six and walked two for the victory. He got ample support from John Mazurek, who rapped a pair of singles and had a RBI, and McManaway who came through with two bases-loaded singles that drove in four runs.

Franklin also shutout Bishop Borgess 5-0 behind Sergison's three-hitter. The Patriot southpaw notched five strikeouts and walked only five.

Gary DeYonker picked up three singles in four trips to the plate, while Mazurek checked it with two-for-four and McManaway also had two hits, one a double, in four appearances at the plate.

"I feel this was an exciting season," Cullin added. "This being my first year as head coach I really didn't know what to expect. But these kids were terrific, it's too bad we had to run up against a good ball club like Catholic Central when we did."

The Jensen family

A family that swims together apparently wins a heap of medals together. The Jensens are that kind of family. Recently, Julie (from left) John and Michael Jensen competed in a meet at Michigan City in Indiana and the young swimmers brought home their share of ribbons and medals.

Belleville's Joe Louis Jones heads boxing card in Canton

On Tuesday, June 12th at 8:00 p.m. the Center Stage nightclub in Canton Township will again host Olympia Fights. The Center Stage, located at 39940 Ford Rd. (at I-275) was the scene of a successful five bout card on May 8, 1979.

It is hoped that the plush entertainment spot will add a new dimension to the "Club" style boxing once so prominent in Detroit.

The five bout card on June 12th will feature the professional boxing debut of three talented and popular Detroit amateurs, all from Kronk Recreational Center and managed by Emmanuel Steward, the trainer - manager of welterweight contender, Thomas Hearns.

Belleville's Joe Louis Jones is a twenty-five year old heavyweight. He weighs in at 220 lbs. and stands 6'5". Jones has eight years of amateur experience under his belt and won the Ohio Golden Gloves Tournament.

DuJuan Johnson is an 18-year-old welterweight. He weighs in at 139 lbs. and stands 5'9". DuJuan, begins his pro career with an amateur record of 108-17. Those who have seen DuJuan fight have dubbed him "Mr. Excitement."

Johnson represented the United States on the A.A.U. International Boxing team in 1978 and fought in Poland, Rumania, England, Cuba, Germany and Ireland. Boxing buffs may remember him from numerous television appearances on ABC Wide World of Sports.

Another Jr. welterweight is represented in Benny Ray Trusel. Trusel, 142 lbs and 5'10" is twenty years old and has seven years of amateur experience. He comes off an amateur record of 120-8 and also boxed in A.A.U. International tournaments in Europe. Upon his return home, Trusel joined the army where he boxed only briefly. Back home in late 1978, he began training for a pro career.

Sports Meridian

The trials and tribulations of Jack Moores are coming to an end (or was that just beginning?) as the Romulus North Little League president announced this week the first phase of what will be a $250,000 baseball complex in Romulus has been completed.

"We've set aside noon Saturday for dedication ceremonies," Moores said, "And we're inviting everyone to view this excellent facility."

When the complex is eventually completed it will contain five baseball diamonds and lights for night games, Moores said. The complex is located on Henry Ruff and Beverly Rd.

Opening day ceremonies include a parade of some 18 baseball teams and speeches. Romulus Mayor Bill Oakley will be tossing out the first ball and behind the plate will be Mary Ann Banks, Mayor Pro Tem.

Moores said that the $250,000 is being raised through donations, bingo and bowling nights.

"We owe a lot to a lot of people," said Moores. "I really don't know how to thank these people for the help they have given our program and to the youngsters of this city."

Moores said that through the generosity of such men as Gill White Sr., owner of DadsSons Electrical, who donated $5000 in material and labor, and Jim Moore, of Sand & Gravel Pit who donated between $5,000 to $7,000 in material, "this dream of a baseball complex is becoming a reality."

Other Little League benefactors include Doug Baum, of Baum Funeral Home who donated $1,000 in cash to the project; Coca Cola Bottling Company, which donated $1,000 for a scoreboard and Mr. Eugene perecki, who owns Recreation Bowling, who presented the Little Leaguers with a check for $500.

The organizations' bingo and bowling nights brought in a hetty $20,000.

Just goes to show what people working together can do.

Car wash, anyone?

Before signing off, Steve Schwartz, head basketball coach at Wayne Memorial, wanted to remind all Zebra fans that the basketball club's Car Wash Day is on Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For a small fee, car owners can get their vehicles cleaned at the Mobil Station located at Wayne Rd. and Palmer.

All proceeds will go to purchase basketball shoes for the players.

Belleville captures girls softball title

In a year of title droughts, Belleville High's softball team can stand tall.

Coach Peggy Curtis' girls crushed Allen Park 15-6 last week to clinch the 1979 Suburban 8 Conference championship. The victory lifted the Tigers to a 10-2 league and a 15-4 overall mark.

Winning pitcher Betsy Nota, who gave up six hits and struck out 11, received ample hitting support from teammates Debbie Fuller and Debbie Kottke. Miss Fuller laced three hits, including a double, while Miss Kottke bagged two hits.

gold to Dearborn's Tim Rawh who hit the wire in 4:21.

Oakley also finished third (9:56) in the two-mile run.

Royster also is wearing a second place medal for his efforts in the 220-yard dash. He turned in a 23.5, identical to that of the Dearborn entry who "outleaned his rival at the finish line," Medley related.

Gdula's 53.2 for the 440-yard dash netted him a bronze in that event.

"We started this thing in the rain in April and we finished it in the rain," said Medley who wound up his fourth year as the Tigers' head coach. "I guess I have to be contented with the final results. We have never finished this high in the league before."

Belleville also compiled a 5-1 dual meet record. Their lone loss was Ypsilanti.

2 Wayne wrestlers win medals

Wayne Coach John Wood hopes to get a lot of mileage out of his wrestlers this summer.

Wood took four members of his team to the Indianapolis Tech Tournament over the weekend and two managed to return with medals.

Dave Shell placed fourth at 119, while Rob Spada finished sixth at 177.

"Both Shell and Spade wrestled way up from their normal high school weight classes," Wood pointed out, "and they came out very well."

Other members of the Wolfpack team that made the trip to Indianapolis are Jim Daniel (132) and Lou Toarmina (155). The United States Wrestling Federation sponsored the tournament which drew competitors from Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan.

Westlander is tops at Indiana swim meet

With some 326 young swimmers representing six states, Westlander Julie Jensen showed that she can be a winner.

The meet was staged last weekend in Michigan City, Indiana and the host, Sullair Piranah Club, invited young swimmers from Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

And the young Westland swimmer returned to Michigan with the meet's High Point Trophy for 8-and-Under girls.

Miss Jensen placed first in the 25-yard backstroke (18.7), 25 butterfly (17.4), 100 Individual Medley (1:26.0), second place in the 25 breaststroke (21.1 seconds), and third place in the 25 freestyle (16.1 seconds).

Julie swims as a member of the Dearborn Mustang swim club.

In addition, Julie's brother John, ten, and Michael, twelve traveled to Lansing to swim in the Lansing Swim Association Meet.

John placed first in the 50 breaststroke (37.9 seconds), 100 breaststroke (1:23.6 seconds); third in the 100 freestyle (1:03.8 seconds); fourth in the 50 butterfly (34.1 seconds), 100 backstroke (1:16.7 seconds), 50 freestyle (29.8 seconds), and fifth in the 50 backstroke (35.4 seconds).

Michael placed first in the 100 freestyle (1:05.3 seconds); third in the 50 freestyle (30.7 seconds); fifth in the 50 breaststroke (37.9 seconds) and sixth in the 50 backstroke (34.3 seconds) and 200 Individual Medley (2:36.9 seconds).

Retirees look back on 53 years service

With the completion of another school year, two members of the Van Buren School Food Services department will say their farewells to their respective schools and fellow employees.

Harriet Walters and Verdys Shepherd, with a combined total of 53 years service, will "hang up their aprons, turn in their cookbooks and retire."

Mrs. Walters began work at the Belleville High School cafeteria in September of 1956 and continued on for four years before advancing to the cafeteria manager's position at South Junior High School.

She and her husband, Clayton, make their home at 363 Church St., Belleville. They have three sons, Donald Walters of Belleville; Ritchie Millard of Phoenix, Ariz. and Robert Millard of Eldon, Mo. and one daughter, Margaret Jean (M.J.) Walters of Belleville, plus eight granddaughters and one grandson.

A resident of Belleville since 1937, Mrs. Walters is a member of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville, the Rebekah Lodge and School Food Service Association. Her favorite pasttimes are traveling, sewing and crocheting and, for the future, she just plans to live day by day.

The kids at Elwell Elementary School will miss seeing the smiling face of Verdys Shepherd who will retire as manager of the kitchen staff — a post she has filled for the past 22 years.

Her career had its beginnings when she was a substitute for the Van Buren School Food Services in 1949. She later accepted full-time employment at Belleville High School in 1952. Prior to her final assignment at Elwell School, she was manager at both Quirk and Denton Elementary Schools.

Mrs. Shepherd and her husband, Arthur, reside at 15796 Elwell Rd., Belleville, where one daughter, Mrs. Roger (Diane) Ferguson, and two sons, Jim and Brian, also of Belleville, come to visit frequently, the former two with their spouses and children: Leslie, Shawn and Shari Ferguson and Daryle and Kimberly Shepherd, and the latter with his wife, Nancy.

Also affiliated with the First United Methodist Church of Belleville, Mrs. Shepherd will find plenty to keep her retirement hours busy what with her interest in baking and decorating wedding cakes, in traveling and camping and just being out of doors.

Sheila Stabnau to be fall bride

An autumn altar date has been set by Sheila Joy Stabnau of Belleville and Willard Campbell Menish of Redondo Beach, Calif. The First United Methodist Church of Belleville has been reserved for their Sept. 22 wedding.

MISS STABNAU

The young couple's engagement is announced by Harvey and Elaine Stabnau of 88 S. Biggs St., Belleville, parents of the bride-elect who is currently in her senior year at Eastern Michigan University. A 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, Miss Stabnau is working toward her bachelor's degree in business administration with a major in marketing.

The prospective bridegroom, who resides at 211 Yacht Club Way in Redondo Beach, is the son of George and Maryal Menish of 3931 Huntington St., Washington, D.C. He received his bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from the University of Michigan in April and is presently with TRW in Redondo Beach.

Pete, Luanne Schonfeld welcome a son, Matthew

"And baby makes three . . ." is the tune being hummed these mid-spring days at the Evanston, Ill. home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jeffrey Schonfeld who reside at 1231 Grant Street.

The arrival of their first child, a son, on May 27 is being announced by the new parents who welcomed their six pound — one ounce heir at 5:18 in the afternoon. Titled "Matthew Jeffrey", the young man's 19 inch length was also added to the record chart at Evanston Hospital.

The new mother is the former Luanne Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert G. Smith of Tecumseh, formerly of Belleville. The paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schonfeld, reside in Imlay City as do the proud great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hougom and Mrs. Angeline Schonfeld.

A great-great-great aunt of young Matthew, Mrs. Lillie Day, is a long-time resident of Tecumseh.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

When a fella (and especially one's better half) has a big birthday — the kind that's spelled 5-0 — coming up, it takes a heap of pondering to come up with something "special" for that big half-century mark.

So while three-quarters of BG's harem was racking its brain, the other fraction came up with a doozie!

What nicer gift could a man ask for on his 50th birthday than the news that his first grandchild (and a boy at that!) had arrived in time for the May 29 celebration. That was the word when BG answered the phone the evening of May 27.

Arriving three weeks earlier than expected, our little grandson (whom we'll be checking out over the weekend) put in his appearance at 5:18 p.m. on a lazy Sunday afternoon when (had the weather been just a WEE bit nicer) the new grandparents would have been out on the golf course and missed the call.

So we now have Matthew Jeffrey added to our family tree — a little fella with his mother's coloring (we hear).

And guess where yours truly and "Aunt Carol" spent her day off? . . . Would the baby department at Jacobson's surprise you?

Adding to our roster of "favorite recipes" this week is Emma Drohmer who reads "potpourri" while babysitting each week for her nephew in Romulus. Mrs. Drohmer, a Waynite, says she tries dozens of new and interesting dishes each winter but tapers off when the warm weather strikes (and when will THAT be?)

"My husband is a real dessert nut," she wrote, "and one of his (and our boys' favorites) is the Chocolate-Date-Nut Cake I clipped out of a newspaper years ago and find myself making more often than other desserts."

CHOCOLATE DATE NUT CAKE

1 cup dates, cut in 8ths
1 tsp. baking soda
1 cup boiling water
1¾ cups flour
¼ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. cocoa
¼ pound oleo
½ cup shortening
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup chocolate chips
1 cup chopped nuts

Sprinkle soda over dates; pour in boiling water, set aside. Cream sugar and shortenings, add eggs, then flour and vanilla. Bake in greased 9 x 13 pan. Sprinkle top with chocolate chips and nuts. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-40 minutes.

Mrs. C. Drohmer's footnote says, "If you really want to be lavish, add some whipped cream or whipped topping."

Again — our thanks on behalf of all those homemakers who will give this lucious-sounding date cake a test run.

Isn't it an awful disappointment when you've been thinking of a particular food and have had a chronic case of the drools all day long and then — strike out? It's not in season, they just ran out, the place that make it went out of business, etc.

Having never been afflicted with the all-American-burger-mania, it was strange for me to be craving a Wendy's old-tyme juicy special — and a double at that. At work last Thursday, Wendy's just kept nudging its way into my unconscious — those natural juices just coating the mindbank unmercifully.

Not being one to eat (or drink) alone, I decided to "surprise" Carol as she finished work and take her out to "dinner". Well, Carol surprised ME by working a private party and getting off an hour early. In all fairness, I couldn't see myself eating out and her at home waiting for me so — despite the fact there was a Wendy's just minutes away, I did the motherly thing and went home (each pothole jarring up the silly salivary glands.)

We DID go out for a bite — Carol'd been envisioning a steak all day — but somehow the hamburger I DID order tasted like cardboard warmed over and Carol's steak left much to be desired.

Isn't it a letdown to have to settle for second-best? What a bummer!

Lest you think your valuables consist of money, jewelry, stereo, TV, silver, etc., you'd better consider putting a padlock on your pantry and freezer.

Our neighbors returned from vacation to find not only a ransacked house and many missing items including a piece of carpeting that'd been systematically dissected, but — every bit of their food and meat had been included in the burglary.

Yes, English HAS to be about the most confusing language (as the experts claim). Take for instance the following words: bough, though, through, tough, cough.

THOSE DEAD GIVEAWAYS: You can tell what the parents REALLY think of you by the way their kids treat you. Kids are not good bluffers and have yet to learn from the "experts" how to fake it.

If you're still standing over a pot of pasta and stirring as it cooks, this is for you. One of the best things I learned from the long-defunct "Lady of Charm" television show was how to cook pasta the no-sweat way.

Bring water, salt and about a tablespoon of cooking oil, oleo or butter to a rapid boil. Add spaghetti, elbow mac or whatever and return to a full boil, stirring with a fork. Pop a lid on, remove from heat and let stand for 15 to 20 minutes (depending on thickness of pasta.)

WARNING: Do not lift lid during the setting period.

According to the National Institute of Health, one out of 15 Americans is affected by some hearing loss. Many times a person is not aware that he is missing half the conversation around him.

We can all find out just how we rate on that audio scale by stopping in at the Hearing Clinic which the Belleville Lioness Club will sponsor on Saturday, June 9. The tests are free of charge, open to the public and are slated from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the conference room at Belleville City Hall.

BRIDE: Hector, this was our wedding day. I've been waiting at the church for two hours!

GOLFER: I told you, Mathilda, only if it's raining. Only if it's raining.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Grandchildren don't make a man feel old; it's the knowledge that he's married to a grandmother.

Edgemont Drama Club sets 'Charlie Brown'

The Edgemont Drama Club will present, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" by Clark Gesner, at the Belleville High School Auditorium June 8 and 9. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. The play is based on the comic strip "Peanuts" by Charles Schulz.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children and senior citizens.

Past performances of the Edgemont Drama Club include "The Phantom Tollbooth", "Wizard of Oz", "The Hobbitt" and "Tom Sawyer".

Watkins-Noeyack wed

Double ring vows exchanged

Arrangements of blue and yellow carnations and white gladiolas adorned the altar of St. Mary Magdalen Church in Melvindale as Diana Marie Noeyack and R. Michael Watkins exchanged nuptial vows and wedding bands.

The Rev. Robert J. Witkowski presided at the April 28 ceremony before some 75 assembled relatives and friends.

The two o'clock rite united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Noeyack of 6759 Gloria, Romulus, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watkins of 17037 Cicotte, Allen Park.

Escorted up the aisle by her father, Diana appeared in a bouffant skirted bridal creation of white Chantilly lace with tiers of ruffles attached to a little fitted bodice.

A pearl-studded princess neckline, long tapered sleeves and cathedral-length train were other styling details on the gown. Her fingertip veil, edged in matching lace, fell from a crown of crystals and pearls with a bouquet of white roses, carnations and baby's breath completing her ensemble.

Linda Marie Noeyack was her sister's honor attendant in a yellow frock designed in the ante bellum mode with an off-the-shoulder neckline. She wore a headdress of yellow lace and tulle and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and blue carnations.

Bridesmaids were Kathy Matthews of Belleville; Sandy Lewis of Romulus; Denise Petsch of Redford, cousin of the bride, and Chrissy Watkins of Lincoln Park, cousin of the bridegroom.

Their dresses in blue were duplicates of the maid of honor's with their flowers being blue roses and blue and yellow carnations.

Youngsters in the wedding party were Robie Smith, the 6-year-old son of the R. Smiths, and Amy Glover, the 4-year-old daughter of the W. Glovers. As flowergirl Amy donned a little yellow frock fashioned in the southern mode and wore yellow flowers in her hair.

The bridegroom asked Glenn Helms of Romulus to serve as best man. Ushers were Bernie Noeyack of Romulus, brother of the bride; Gary Oaks and Rick Zavitz of Romulus, and Brian Watkins of Allen Park, brother of the bridegroom.

At the Knights of Columbus Hall where the reception was held the bride's mother greeted the 400 guests in a pink chiffon gown accented with sequins. Her corsage was comprised of pink baby roses. Baby roses in an apricot shade were presented to the bridegroom's mother who chose to wear an apricot chiffon gown with a pearled bodice.

Since returning from a week-long honeymoon in Daytona Beach, Fla., the newlyweds have been at home at 35550 Margaret in Romulus.

Both young people are Romulus High School graduates. The new Mrs. Watkins is employed in Southland at Kinney's Shoes and her husband works at G.M. Detroit Diesel in Romulus.

MR. AND MRS. R. MICHAEL WATKINS

Through the paces

Beatrice Herring is shown practicing her equitation with her horse, Velvet, while preparing for the 3rd Annual Mustangers 4-H Club Open Horse Show. The local club will hold its exhibition Sunday, June 10, starting at 8:30 a.m. at the Wayne County Fairgrounds near Belleville.

VB Garden Club wins Sears Award

Four members of the Van Buren Garden Club, Mrs. Joseph Horste, Mrs. Walter Molik, Mrs. Timothy Posthumous and Mrs. Frank Prais, drove to Kalamazoo recently to participate in the convention of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan and to attend the awards banquet.

At the dinner, the Van Buren Garden Club was honored with the Sears Civic Award for Community Service. Mrs. Posthumous, having served as Library Chairman for several years, accepted on behalf of the club. The accolade was in recognition of the Club's care and maintenance of the Fred C. Fischer Library grounds and patio.

James Mikkelson, a plant hybridizer largely responsible for today's beautiful poinsettias and begonias, gave an informative talk entitled "In Today, Already Walks Tomorrow". His discussion on "new" plants was implemented by illustrative slides and highlighted by the viewing of actual plants which will be presented for sale to the general public in 1980.

Most of these plants had been developed to be especially small growing, appropriate to small homes and apartments, and included Reiger Begonias and kalanchoes, impatiens and cyclamen which at maturity were comfortable in 3 or 4-inch pots but still were prolific in their flowering habits.

4-H Mustangers preparing for annual open horse show

The Mustangers 4-H Club is preparing for its 3rd annual open horse show which will be held starting at 8:30 a.m. June 10 at the Wayne County Fairgrounds on Quirk Road, Belleville.

Ms. Irene Novotny of Plainwell will judge the horses and equestrians in halter classes, showmanship, western and English pleasure and pleasure driving. Racking horse classes are included in the class list and this will be a good opportunity for spectators to catch a glimpse of these horses as well as many others going through their paces.

The Mustangers are busy this year with the various 4-H activities offered throughout the state. Beth and Beatrice Herring had their animal projects, swine and a mare and foal at Greenfield Village for the Annual Village Country Fair held from May 17 to 20. They joined many other 4-H participants with their livestock exhibits and stayed on the beautiful Village grounds all four days.

Beth Herring was involved in the Wayne County 4-H judging team this past spring and participated in the State Contest held at Michigan State University in late April as a junior team member.

The Mustangers have 26 members preparing for Achievement Days which will be held late in July and all will be taking horses and some other livestock projects to the Wayne County Fair in August.

About 10 club members will be spending three days at Michigan State University during 4-H Exploration Days. This is a learning experience packed with fun as there are about 150 learning options for 4-H youths from Michigan to choose from and these youths and adults bring back their experiences to share with others.

Miss Bell is pageant contestant

The only Belleville resident to enter the Miss Michigan Venus USA Pageant is Gayle Bell, the daughter of Dwight and Mary Bell of 58 Chaney St., Belleville.

Miss Bell, a 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, is being sponsored by Sesi Lincoln-Mercury of Ypsilanti. She will be judged in 1-piece bathing suit and formal evening gown competition June 19 at the Center Stage in Canton. The top 25 contenders will also be interviewed by the panel of judges.

Sponsored by Guenther Enterprises of Dearborn, the pageant prize will be an all-expense trip to the national finals in September to represent Michigan.

Romulus Senior Club No. 1 has busy times ahead

The month of May was very rewarding, financially, for Romulus Senior Citizens Club No. 1. Contributing to the "in the black" status were a "Luncheon is Served" program, 50-50 raffle and cake walk.

Lucky winners in the raffle drawing on May 29 were Verna Stubblefield, first; Kathleen Federer, second, and Herman McIntosh, third, the latter two being members of the club.

The executive board was to have met last night, June 5, after which a meeting and luncheon were held followed by a free bingo for prizes of groceries.

The regular business meeting will be held June 12 with the activities committee still completing plans for the day.

On June 19 an afghan, donated by Leona Buckberry, will be raffled. Tickets are being sold for 25 cents each.

Father's Day will be observed June 19 so all dads in the club are being urged to come on out and find what the ladies have "cooked up for you". A potluck and bingo are on the calendar for June 26.

Hemophiliacs being asked to register

The Ann Arbor-based Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan is starting a drive to locate and register all hemophiliacs, individuals with von Willebrand's disease and other hereditary disorders in Wayne County and throughout the state.

The campaign is in conjunction with a new National Hemophilia Registry, which is sponsored by the National Hemophilia Foundation.

Hemophilia, a hereditary hemorrhagic disorder known commonly as "bleeder's disease," affects an unknown number of Michigan residents.

The registry information is "of essential importance to health care planners, legislatures and the insurance industry as they consider proposals to meet the needs of the state's and the nation's hemophiliacs," a foundation spokesman said.

"One benefit of the registry is that it will make it possible to accurately project the future demand on the nation's and Michigan's blood supply for life-saving derivatives needed in the treatment of hemophilia," the spokesman added.

Recent medical breakthroughs have provided a means for controlling the disease through infusion of the missing clotting factor concentrate from the blood of normal donors.

Hemophiliacs participating in the registry will receive an official ID card which contains vital information about their condition and appropriate treatment.

A registry form may be obtained from the Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan by contacting Allen Woodford, Administrative Coordinator, U-M North Outpatient Building, Room D1119, 1425 North Hospital Drive, Ann Arbor 48109.

Information about individuals who register is kept completely confidential and names of hemophiliacs will not be released by the foundation.

They came to attend the wedding of Jean Lawrence, daughter of Marilyn and William R. Lawrence of Livonia, to Jonathan Doyel of Chicago, Ill., on May 19 at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

After a honeymoon spent at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island and in Northern Michigan, they will make their home in Chicago where Jon is employed by Georgia Pacific Inc. Jon graduated from EMU in 1978 with a degree in business administration and Jean in 1979 from EMU with a degree in early childhood education. She received Magna Cum Laude honors.

Mrs. Frank (Helen) Beasecker of Liberty Street recently returned home from Florida where she had spent the past five weeks with her sister, Mrs. Mary Powell of Bloomfield Hills at Long Boat Key.

Holiday weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Corzine of East Huron River Drive were their son, Gordon Corzine, with his family, Scott, Deven and Kristina, from Cincinnati, Ohio; their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Evans with Amy and Benjamin from Wyoming; and Miss Veronica Morgan, a friend from Boston, Mass.

On Sunday, May 27, they were joined by friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Bush from Dearborn, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Budd of the Expressway, and all enjoyed dinner in the "Tin Lizzy's" private dining room in celebration of the 45th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Corzine. They also received a long distance phone call from their other son, Dr. Donald Corzine in Soquel, Calif.

Guests this past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parker of South Service Drive, were the latter's sister, Mrs. Marie Hastings from Hattisburg, Miss. and the latter's son, Charles Hooper, from Morgan City, La.

Mrs. Gordon Neir of Belleville Road returned home Monday, May 28, from Oakland, Calif. where she had been a guest of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Neir, for the past three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Don McKee and family of South Service Drive spent the holiday weekend with friends at Otsego Lake.

Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Russell Benjamin of Fowlerville, returned home last week from Roxbury, Conn. where they had been guests for two weeks of Mrs. Smith's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Marshall and family. Enroute home they visited Mrs. Benjamin's son, Dennis, at Red Bank, N.J.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr of Crowley Street attended an open house on Sunday, May 27, at the Marshall home of John and Betty Clark, (former Belleville residents) honoring their son, David, on his confirmation.

An open house was held on Sunday, May 20, at the Roland Street home of Winifred Gault for her daughter and granddaughter, Marjory and Pam Bowick, to meet old classmates and friends. On Monday they were entertained at luncheon at the Hyatt Regency before leaving for home in Easley S.C. on Tuesday.

Given by the Washtenaw County Retired Senior Volunteer Program, which is sponsored by the Washtenaw Co. Parks and Recreation Commission, her 4-year award was for her volunteer work at Veteran's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Sharlene Tator recently entertained 20 pupils of her third grade class from Taft Galloway Elementary School in Wayne at a picnic and outing at her home on High Street. The group toured Richardson's Ceramics Shop, bought Kentucky-fried chicken and enjoyed a picnic lunch in the yard. The youngsters had to earn their own money to spend before they came. They were accompanied by six other adults besides their teacher.

Dennis and Kim Warner of Belleville celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary in Fort Wayne, Ind. during a 4-day stay, May 16-20, at the home of The Rev. and Mrs. Michael Moser, former pastor of the Zion Missionary Church in Belleville and his wife.

The highlight of the Belleville Junior Study Club's Annual May dinner at Woodstone Inn was the presentation of its 1979 Genevieve Clark Scholarship.

The scholarship, presented yearly to a single female parent engaged in furthering her education, (in the amount of $300) went to Dawn Shepherd of Anh Arbor.

She not only is active in her church but is currently serving as a leader of her daughter's Junior Girl Scout Troop.

Not helpless

Of the more than six million mentally retarded persons in America, 75 to 85 percent are capable of becoming self-supporting, both economically and socially — if they receive adequate services such as special education and vocational preparation. Another 10 percent are capable of becoming partially self-supporting, and only a small proportion remain essentially dependent.

Out of a few ingredients, a crust and filling

INCREDIBLE PIE

Yield: 1 10-inch pie

½ cup all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
¼ cup (½ stick) butter, melted
4 eggs, well-beaten

1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package (7 oz.) coconut

Microwave uncovered on full power, turning dish a half turn every 3 minutes, until filling is firm, about 10 minutes. Cool several hours or overnight. Just before serving, place pie under broiler until top is golden brown, if desired.

MICROWAVE COOKING TIPS

1. Use only approved microwave cookware which is usually heat-resistant glass, ceramic (or combinations thereof), only certain plastics (which withstand high temperature), and paper (plates, waxed paper or paper toweling). Metal is a no-no because it reflects microwaves rather than allowing food to absorb them.
2. Quick cooking (as in microwave) does not brown food unless you use a special browning unit.
3. Microwaves lose power as they penetrate food. Thus, stirring is required during the cooking process in certain recipes.

Chubby no longer is 'cute'

The chubby baby used to be thought of as cute, and still is, to a certain extent.

Less cute, is a chubby adolescent.

But, not cute at all is a chubby adult.

That chubby infancy could lead to obese adulthood, unless parents take appropriate action.

Florine Mark, area director of Weight Watchers in this area, said there are several reasons why fat infants and fat children become fat adults.

"For one thing, many infants and young children are simply overfed. For another, we live in a culture that places unwarranted stress on food. Also, there can be a lack of understanding on the part of parents of proper feeding habits during infancy," Ms. Mark said. "What is particularly distressing is that parents can unwittingly put their children on the path to overweight adulthood by imposing their own bad eating habits on the youngsters."

If you're celebrating the arrival of a new addition to your household, Weight Watchers in this area has a "baby gift" for you that could help your child to avoid the frustrations of trying to shed pounds as a fat adult.

The gift "is an informative booklet that can serve as a general guide to what and how to feed your child."

Titled, "The Fat Child ... Born or Made? Thoughts on Feeding From Infancy to Adolescence," the booklet was developed under the supervision of Dr. William Sebrell, medical director of Weight Watchers International.

The booklet offers vital information on what a baby should eat during the first year of life; what foods should be avoided, and how proper eating patterns can be established.

For the toddler and the young child, there are guidelines on how to develop good eating habits by making available nutritionally well-balanced foods and recommendations on how to discourage youngsters from eating valueless "junk foods."

The booklet emphasizes that "if a lifelong problem of overweight is to be avoided, the fat child should start a program of weight control as early as possible. But no child should be placed on a diet without medical supervision."

For a free copy of this enlightening and educational booklet, write Weight Watchers Inc., 15999 W. 12 Mile Road, Box 125LV, Southfield 48076. Enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.
